IN Guiding Stars, enthusiastic but sometimes bumbling amateurs in all sorts of fields are given advice by celebrated professionals. For instance, Dale Winton, who spent 15 years in local radio, helps a group of volunteers to transform an ailing hospital radio station. And England goalkeeper David Seaman (above) takes on the challenge of coaching Chiltern, a pub football team boasting such legendary names as Digger, Jogger and Treader. Not to mention the goalie, Fat Phil. Adam Woodyatt (EastEnders Ian Beale) directs an amateur dramatics club and copes stoically with the fact that they keep calling him Ian. Most intriguing of all, in the light of post-filming developments, Lawrence Dallaglio, the soon-to-be-ex-England rugby captain, coaches a women's rugby team.

IN 1998, more than a third of all visitors to Tenerife were from the UK – 1,450,146 of them. Most headed for the sun-kissed, beer-stained south, in particular the charmless resort of Playa de las Americas, where it's not uncommon to find tattooed twentysomethings, shaven-headed and stripped to the waist, stopping during games of beach football to throw up last night's Tetley bitter. And if you think that's an unpleasant image, you should see what the men get up to. This summer, a camera crew spent the summer in Playa de las Americas, and discovered that there is more to the resort than Brits behaving badly. Not much more, surely? Anyway, their revelations are to be unveiled in an eight-part series called Summer 99 Uncovered. Not inappropriately, the new series is to be sponsored by Durex.
Sky One, from Sunday 19th, 10.00pm

AT THE age of just 28, Napoleon Bonaparte devised an audacious plan. In 1798 he amassed a huge force and sailed to Egypt intent on conquering the country and using it as a base to expand French territory. But things went badly wrong. The British navy, led by Admiral Nelson, was waiting and in the ensuing battle the pride of Napoleon's fleet, L'Orient, laden with gunpowder, exploded and sank. Now the wreckage of the ship has been explored by French marine archaeologist Franck Goddio, whose expedition uncovered storybook treasures including gold coins and jewellery, as well as poignant relics like cooking pots and sailor's shoes. Goddio's work and a reconstruction of the battle are documented in Napoleon's Lost Fleet, which premieres this month. The death toll was high – 1700 Frenchmen and 900 British. A year later, Napoleon legged it back to France where he was soon to become emperor. Discovery Channel, Sunday 12th, 9.00pm

YOU MAY recall that at the end of the last series of Dream Team how Harchester United beat Manchester United in the FA Cup Final. As if that were not drama enough, chairman Jerry Block (below) had hired a hitman, having learnt that his wife Lynda was having a torrid affair with Harchester's star striker, the Argentinian hotshot Luis Rodriguez. In a tense denouement, the hitman raised his rifle and trained it on the players as they were cavorting round the Wembley pitch on their lap-of-honour. A shot rang out. Dream Team fans have had a miserable summer, barely able to eat a Knickerbocker Glory for wondering who copped the bullet. Soon, all will be revealed. Whatever happens, it's unlikely that Harchester United (unlike Manchester United) will decline the opportunity to defend the FA Cup.

THE Emmy Awards – American TV's equivalent of the Oscars – are presented on Monday 13th. To be in the audience must be a peculiar form of torture as categories include Outstanding Hairstyling for a Series and, quite separately, Outstanding Hairstyling for a Mini-Series. More interestingly, the nominations for best actor in a drama series include the incomparable Dennis Franz for* NYPD Blue, up against his erstwhile colleague Jimmy Smits, and James Gandolfini for The Sopranos. As for best actress, nominations include Julianna Margulies (left), ER*'s Nurse Hathaway. Perhaps an Emmy will make up for the fact that she no longer gets to snog George Clooney. Another event to look forward to this month is the MTV Video Music Awards, transmitted live from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. The two big names of the moment are pitted against each other in the scuffle for both the Best Video of the Year and the Best Male Video categories – the sultry Ricky Martin for* La Vida Loca and Will Smith for Wild Wild West and In Miami.

IN MANCHESTER there is a crucible of passion in which dreams of footballing glory are annually raised and dashed. It reverberates week in, week out through the season, with cries of 'man on!' and 'get rid!' and sometimes more earthy exhortations. This place is not called Old Trafford. Or even Maine Road. It is Hough End, several bumpy and windswept acres less than two miles from the penalty area where Dwight Yorke plies his trade. Not that men can't aspire to trebles at Hough End too, if only in the form of a large whisky chaser with a post-match pint of Boddingtons. Each season, 40,000 amateur footballers grace Hough End's 33 pitches, not to mention its 12 changing rooms and antiquated shower block. Football Crazy follows the fortunes of several teams, or more accurately, their misfortunes. In particular those of Henley FC, bottom of the league and facing relegation. Except that when you sink that far, there's nowhere to be relegated to. Henley are run by taxi driver Gordon Henley, whose grasp of the sweeper system owes less to Alex Ferguson than to Sarah Ferguson. And not only are Henley hitting the skids, they have also been known to hit each other. Kevin Kennedy (Coronation Street's Curly Watts) narrates this entertaining 12-part series. ITV2, starts Monday 13th, 10.00pm

A NEW animation series in the mould of The Simpsons and King of the Hill is crossing the Atlantic. Family Guy, which has delighted American audiences, was created by 25-year-old Seth MacFarlane, who provides the voices for three of the characters – Peter Griffin, his baby son Stewie, and his dog Brian. The Griffins – couch potato Peter and his loving wife Lois – are middle-class suburbanites from New England. They have three children – teen queen Meg, 13-year-old slacker Chris, and Stewie, a diabolically clever infant intent on overthrowing his parents and achieving world domination. In the pilot episode alone, Stewie tries to murder his mother as revenge for taking a toy away. 'Stewie is basically the evil scientist from 1950s sci-fi films,' explains MacFarlane. 'His voice is the voice of a diabolical Englishman that I used to do in college, and I've just created a character around it. It actually began as an impression of Rex Harrison.' Who will doubtless be turning in his grave.

Fans of The Professionals are in for a double treat this month – both the original series and the new remake are showing on cable

Get ready for action

MORE than 20 years after Bodie and Doyle first burst onto our screens, The Professionals is back in an updated version of the series.

Out are the faded denim jeans and leather jackets, in are designer clothes from the likes of Hugo Boss and agnés b. But one thing that hasn't changed is the explosive action that made the original series one of Britain's most successful shows.

It was back in December 1977 when the first episode of the series aired, the start of a run that lasted more than five years.

With Lewis Collins and Martin Shaw as the hard-bitten agents Bodie and Doyle, and Gordon Jackson as their superior, Major George Cowley, The Professionals broke new ground in British TV. Its gritty style, strong plots and witty scripts kept it at the top of the ratings and made it the most successful action series made outside of America. The viewers especially seemed to like the verbal sparring between Bodie and Doyle – little did they know that, initially at least, the two actors' antagonism towards each other was genuine.

The series did come in for some criticism. Some people felt the violence was exaggerrated, and it became something of a joke that Doyle couldn't get behind the wheel of his Ford Escort RS2000 without spinning the wheels and leaving skid marks. Mary Whitehouse called the show 'violent, uncouth and thoroughly unsavoury'.

Eventually, the ratings began to drop and the final episode went to air in February 1983.

Fourteen years later, in a 1997 TV interview, Lewis Collins announced that he was in talks about appearing in a new series of the show, playing the head of CI5. In the end, the series went ahead without Collins and filming started in October 1997.

Bodie and Doyle have been replaced by agents Chris Keel (Kal Weber), a charming but volatile ex-Navy Seal from Chicago, and Sam Curtis (Colin Wells), a down-to-earth but ruthless Londoner.

With an eye on the politically correct Nineties, the team is joined by a female member, agent Tina Backus, played by Canadian actress Lexa Doig.

Their boss, Harry Malone, is played by Edward Woodward.

As well as Eastern European terrorists and stolen nuclear bombs, the series includes stories on subjects such as ivory poaching and the illegal traffic in human organs. And as CI5's operations are worldwide, the stories take the agents to the US and South Africa, as well as locations around Britain, including Brand's Hatch raceway and Brighton marina.

Of course, there's still action aplenty, and a lot of screeching tyres, though the old Ford Capri has been replaced by a Nissan 200SX, with occassional guest appearances by a Ford Mondeo and a Lotus Esprit.

- CI5: The New Professionals, Sky One, Sundays from 19th, 8.00pm
- The Professionals, Granada Plus, weekdays from 20th, 3.00pm and 9.00pm.

WATCH OUT!

- Premiering on Sky Movies at the end of the year, Tube Tales comprises nine stories that unfold against the backdrop of the London Underground. The cream of British talent is evident both in front of and behind the camera, with Ewan McGregor and Jude Law trying their hand at directing for the first time. Amongst those featured in the cast list are Jason Flemyng, Denise Van Outen (right) and Rachel Weisz.

- Those of you familiar with Intimate Portraits on Granada Breeze may find 3 October of interest. The channel will be dedicating the whole day to profiling some of the most fascinating women of recent times. The selection of those being featured is diverse – from The Virgin Mary to Audrey Hepburn, and Marilyn Monroe to Andie MacDowell. Prepare to be informed!

- FilmFour are going 'Behind Bars' next month with a prison-inspired season of films and documentaries. It features Papillon, Dead Man Walking, Scum, starring Ray Winstone, and the Oscar-nominated documentary The Farm, which follows the lives of six prisoners behind bars in the United States.

Futurama is here – a cosmic, comic creation from the man who brought us The Simpsons. Words: Eirik Knutzen

THE SIMPSONS creator Matt Groening has moved out of Springfield and into outer space with his eagerly awaited new animated sitcom, Futurama. The show revolves around Fry (voice talent: Billy West), a hapless pizza delivery man who is accidentally flash frozen on New Year's Eve 2000 when he falls into a tank while making a delivery to a cryogenics lab. By sheer chance, he is thawed out 1000 years later to find that things have changed. He meets Leela (Katey Sagal – Peg Bundy from Married with Children), an intrepid butt-kicking, one-eyed female alien, and Bender (John DiMaggio), an incredibly neurotic robot. Together they track down Fry's great-great-great nephew, Professor Farnsworth, who gives all three of them jobs in his intergalactic delivery company.

The premise gives Groening the chance to explore, exploit and, of course, send up all sorts of sci-fi themes.

'I've been a fan of science fiction since I was a little kid,' says Groening. 'Before I could even read I would look at the covers of my older brother Mark's sci-fi magazines and stare in awe at the amazing drawings of robots and bug-eyed aliens. This show is very much an attempt to bring those early memories to life.'

As you'd expect, few things are sacred. In Groening's 30th century world, there are DIY suicide booths (Stop 'n' Drop) and a museum of famous heads (including Richard Nixon, Leonard Nimoy and Groening himself) that have been kept alive to 'share their wisdom'.

Groening plans to gradually expand the cast of characters in Futurama, so that, like The Simpsons, the show will be [illegible] by a rich and diverse [illegible] provide plenty

But even though his Futurama characters sport familiar bulging eyeballs and massive underbites ('it's due to my own drawing limitations'), Groening says he's not trying to replicate anyone from The Simpsons. 'It's my intention to make them look weird and different from anything else on TV,' he says. 'Also, the Futurama characters are multi-coloured instead of yellow. We have evolved.'

The show premiered in America in March and millions of Simpsons fans couldn't wait to see how it compared to its older stablemate. Some critics felt Futurama was too much like The Simpsons, but others raved about it and it's now consolidating its place in the American schedules. After the initial run of 13 episodes, another series of 22 episodes has been ordered.

Groening, 45, takes the mixed response in his stride: 'It takes time and a good timeslot to build any new show, especially since animated shows are no longer a novelty.'

He has made a lot of money from The Simpsons. Spin-off merchandising from the show (some 1,100 different items) has so far turned over an estimated $4 billion.

The pressure to deliver not one, but two animated series is enormous, so once a year or so, Groening makes a serious attempt at saving his mental health by scuba diving. 'All of a sudden,' he says, 'there are no network executives around lying to you. I feel much safer down there at the bottom, swimming with moray eels and great white sharks.'

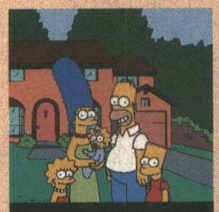
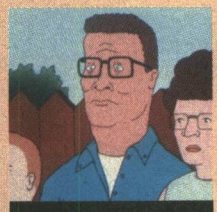
Life in the year 3000: Leela, the one-eyed alien, the neurotic robot Bender, and Fry set out to discover what the 30th century has to offer, beyond pizza

Animated series are the big TV success story of the Nineties. Here's our rundown of some current hits ...



The Simpsons

This legendary animation, created by Matt Groening, is now celebrating its 11th season, with a feature film scheduled for release next year. The Simpsons revolves around the satirical adventures of a borderline dysfunctional family in Springfield, a place laden with misfits who embrace both the best and worst of popular American culture. Countless guest voices have been heard over the years, from Michael Jackson to Meryl Streep and Stephen Hawking.
Sky One, daily, various times, see listings.

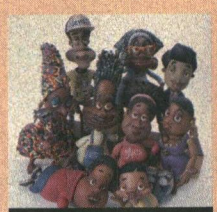


King of the Hill

Created by Mike Judge (Beavis and Butt-head), this critically acclaimed show debuted in America in January 1997 and is now into its third season. The series centres on the lives of conservative propane gas salesman, Texan Hank Hill, his more liberal wife Peggy, their awkward, overweight only child Bobby (Hank has a narrow Urethra) and their live-in niece Luanne. It is set in the town of Arlen, Texas, apparently a refuge for conspiracy theorists and former military personnel.
Sky One, Sundays, 7.30pm (until 12th).

South Park

Trey Parker and Matt Stone created the first cartoon series in the US to receive an MA (Mature Audience) rating. South Park debuted in America in August 1997, and follows the adventures of four foul-mouthed third graders in the town of South Park, Colorado, a place where weird things keep happening. George Clooney once famously guested as a gay dog, and he also features in South Park: Bigger, Longer and Uncut, this summer's movie release, also starring Minnie Driver.
Sky One, returning in November

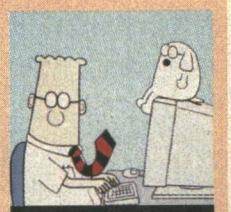


The PJs

Eddie Murphy got the idea for The PJs after watching Thunderbirds. The 'foamation' show debuted in America in January and a second season has been ordered. The PJ's is set in The Hilton-Jacobs Project (PJ for short), an inner city housing development. Thurgood Stubbs (voiced by Murphy), the superintendent of the project, has to deal with the problems of his tenants (Haitian voodoo experts etc.), helped by his salt-of-the-earth wife, Muriel.
Sky One, Sundays 7.00pm (until 12th).

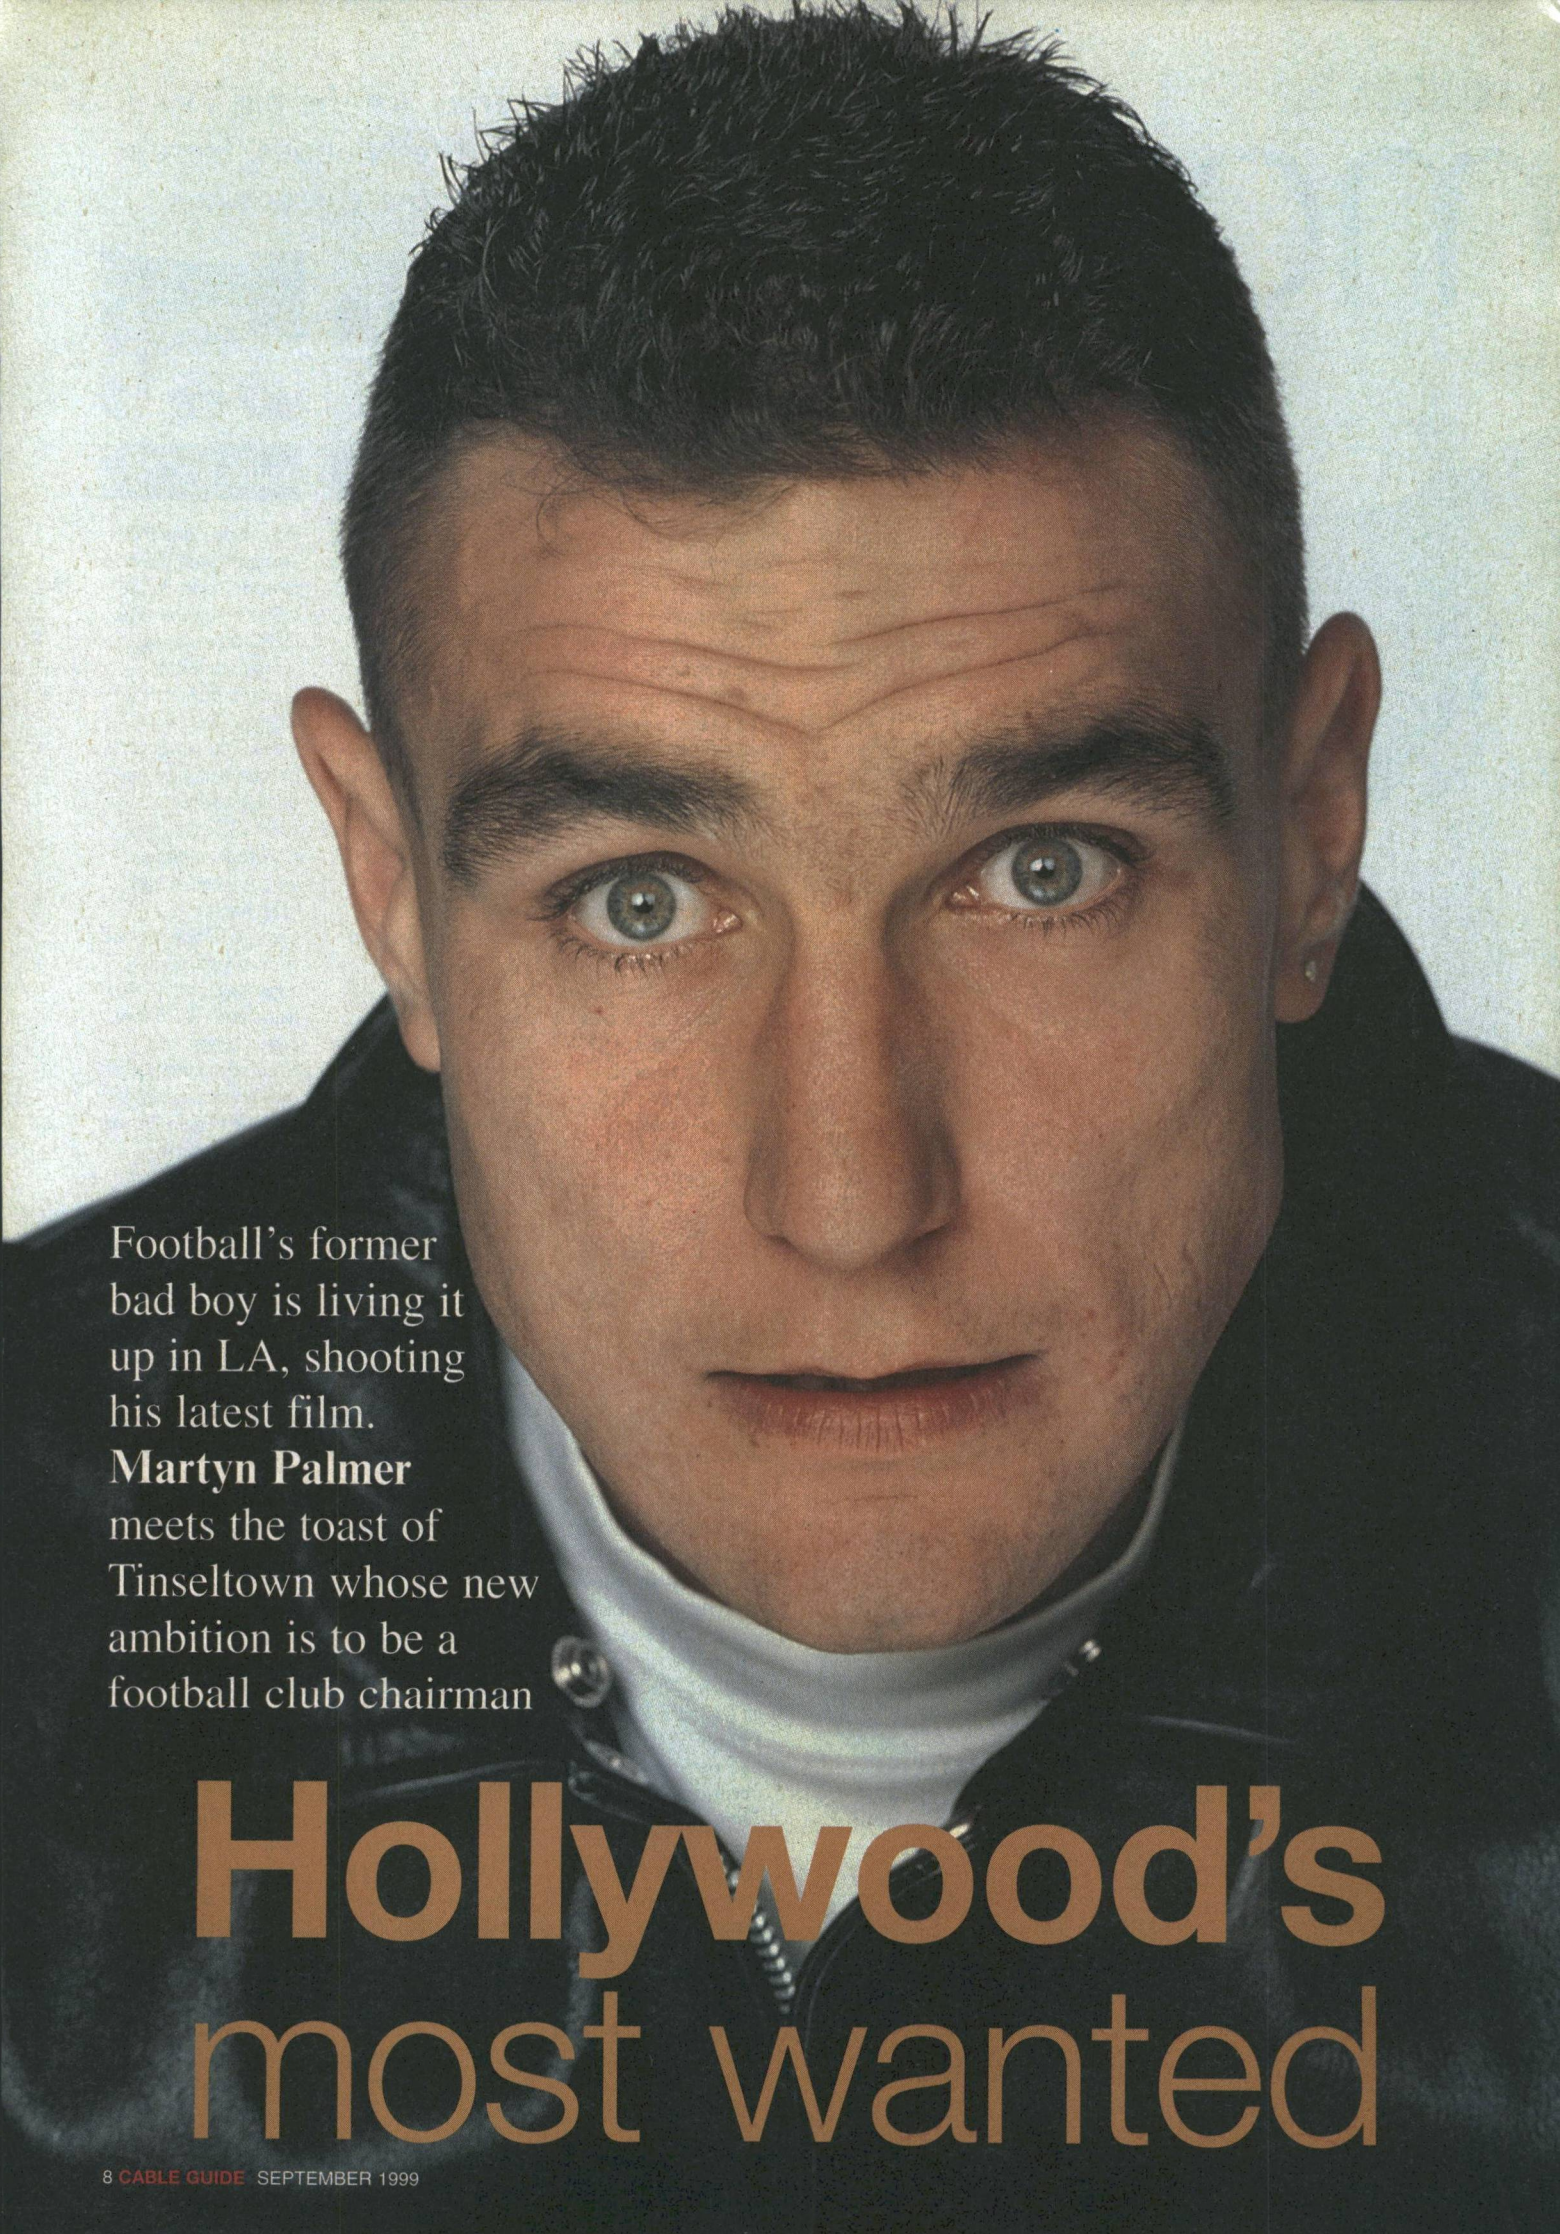
Family Guy

The creator of Family Guy, Seth MacFarlane, voices three of the main characters in this new animation. It follows the adventures in Quahog, a suburban outpost of Rhode Island, of obese unemployed toy factory worker Peter Griffiths, his wife Lois and three children – teen princess Meg, slacker Chris and baby Stewie, a demonic tot determined to eliminate his parents. Not forgetting the talking dog, Brian, who also happens to be oddly fond of Martinis.
Sky One, premieres Tuesday 21st, 8.30pm.



Dilbert

Dilbert came about when creator Scott Adams started drawing cartoons of his colleagues at work. Dilbert is a socially challenged engineer, trying to make sense of the idiotic rules of office life. He works at 'The Company' with the fearsome Pointy Haired Boss, caffeine-swilling Alice and the angry and bitter Wally. Dilmom is no help and only the canine Dogbert is of any use. Dilbert began as a comic strip in 1989 and now appears in over 1,900 papers.
Sky One, returning in January 2000



Football's former bad boy is living it up in LA, shooting his latest film. Martyn Palmer meets the toast of Tinseltown whose new ambition is to be a football club chairman

Hollywood's most wanted

VINNIE JONES, soccer hardman turned movie star, wants to buy his own football club – news that will probably send shivers down the spine of the British football establishment. In an exclusive interview from Los Angeles, where he is filming his latest movie with Nicolas Cage, Vinnie reveals that he is not missing the UK and is glad that he has turned his back on football – but only for now. 'I'm not missing the football at all,' says the 34-year-old, who made his name with Wimbledon – dubbed the Crazy Gang as they ruffled the feathers of soccer's elite clubs. 'I've got no interest in it at all. I've had me stint at that and I've had me fans and I've had me knockers. And now I'm doing something on my own, acting, that's what I want to do and it's hard for them to have a pop at me.

'Everyone knows I had my run-ins with the FA but at the end of the day I feel that I've won. Every time I went up before the FA they used to slaughter me but I've done all right.

'They probably discussed it amongst themselves and said that I would have ended up with a little pub somewhere on the lash.

'Well, fortunately it hasn't turned out like that. I'm having a great time.'

Vinnie's movie breakthrough came playing Big Chris, a mobster's heavy, in the hit British film Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels. Vinnie was at turns menacing and funny and, to the great surprise of many, he showed a relaxed ability in front of the cameras and more than held his own among the more experienced actors alongside him.

'I enjoyed it,' he grins. 'Who wouldn't? I liked the character and I think I proved that I could have a go and make a good job of it. And I was grateful to Guy Ritchie [Lock, Stock director] for the chance.'

The film was a critical and commercial success. Vinnie the actor was on his way and there's talk of him appearing in Ritchie's follow-up film and the possibility of a TV series based on Lock, Stock. Right now he's set up in Hollywood where he's making the blockbuster thriller Gone in 60 Seconds with Cage, the star of hits like Face/Off and Leaving Las Vegas. Life is rather sweet for the Jones boy, who started his working life as a hod carrier on London building sites.

Sprawling by the pool in his Beverly Hills home during a filming break, Vinnie is enjoying the lifestyle so much that he admits he could happily make the move permanent – or at least until he's made enough cash to come back and buy his own club.

During his soccer career, Vinnie went from non-league Wealdstone to Wimbledon. He also played for Chelsea, Leeds and Sheffield United before quitting the game after a spell with Queens Park Rangers.

'If I earn enough money out here maybe I will come back and buy my own club. Why not? That would be my next interest I think. I would like that – a lot. And I could do it, too.

'It's always going to be a bit of a bugbear that they never gave me the managership at QPR. But at the end of the day I'm glad they didn't because I wouldn't be out here doing this movie. It's funny how it all works out.

'I always had a good relationship with the clubs that I've been involved with. There weren't many people at the clubs themselves that I fell out with. It was always the hierarchy in the game that I had my problems with.'

Vinnie left his home in Hertfordshire at the end of May to head for Tinseltown. The night before he left he threw a party for 50 close friends and family at a hotel near his home. 'It was a bit of a farewell do,' he says. 'And it was a fantastic night. I love doing that sort of thing. If I was at home now I'd be taking a load of people to Ascot and having a right old time.

'But I'm not missing England. I think it was a good time for me to have a break. After Lock, Stock it went a bit mad and I was just doing so much work my head was spinning round and round. It was crazy. They were asking me to do four jobs a day for about six weeks and it was running me down.

'And I've come out here to work on the film and concentrate on that. At the moment we are doing night shoots so during the day I've been sitting by the pool, reading my script and going brown. I'm getting a nice old tan, I can tell you. Can't be bad, can it?

'I think I would move here permanently. It's very easy going here. If you drive down the road and someone cuts you up and you sort of make a gesture to them they go, "Oh, what are you doing?" Whereas at home there would be ranting and raving going on. These Californians are so laid back and I like it.'

For the first few weeks of his Californian adventure, Vinnie faced long days and lonely nights without his wife, Tanya, who had to stay at home in England sorting out domestic affairs. But Tanya and her daughter, and Vinnie's son by a previous girlfriend, flew out to join him for an extended summer break in the LA sunshine.

'I concentrated on the work so I'd not missed her too badly. We're having an extension built back at home in Hertfordshire so Tanya had to go back to sort things out.

'But Tanya came back in July and brought the kids and my mother in law, so that was great. It was the first time the kids have been out here to see me and it's a great place for them. Everything's here – Waterworld, Disney, the lot. And I was working in the studio a fair bit so they came along to watch.'

As promotional work piled up after his film debut in Lock, Stock, Vinnie found himself endorsing everything from designer clothes to washing powder, Persil Non Bio to be exact.

In fact, Persil Non Bio used Vinnie to spearhead a campaign labelled 'The Harder The Man, The Softer He Really Is'. Which, considering Vinnie was a player sent off 13 times during his career and first captured headlines when he grabbed Paul Gascoigne's manhood during a game, seemed almost ironic.

'I have got a sensitive side,' he insists. 'I am sensitive to lots of things. My kids for a start. If I see 'em doing well at sports there's a tear in my eye. Saying goodbye to them before I came out here was a bit of a choker.

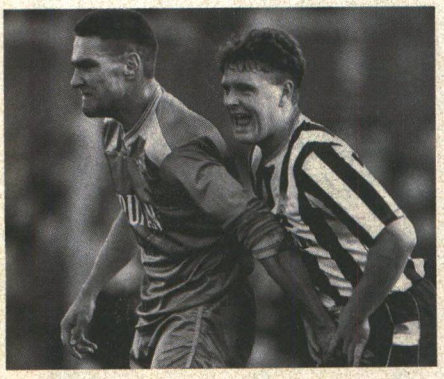
'I also like to do my charity work. People underestimate how much charity work I do but I'm not bothered about that. I think you do charity work for your own peace of mind. I stick with one or two, Harefield Hospital, and Sparks, a children's charity, and I organise a golf day for them every year and we raise thousands.'

In the meantime, Vinnie Jones is concentrating on his new movie. 'I can't say a lot about it at the moment. But it's going very well. I'm having a great time.'

He does admit though, that there are one or two things from back home that he misses. 'Oh yeah,' he laughs. 'Me teabags and me Hamlet cigars. You can't get a decent cup of tea out here.'

So there you have it. Vinnie Jones sat by the pool, sipping a cup of tea, puffing on a cigar and enjoying the good life in California.

'Every morning I wake up and think, "How the hell did I get here?" Then I go out in the car and come back to this lovely house, drive through the electronic gates and think, "Where did it all go wrong?"'



Hit 'em where it hurts! An historic and painful encounter with Paul Gascoigne

Tough enough?

For the first time ever, TV cameras have followed soldiers on one of the British Army's most gruelling training courses. Words: Tim Ewbank

SKY ONE

BATTLE STRIPES: STARTS TUESDAY 21ST 9.00PM

PHOTOS: MILITARY PICTURE LIBRARY, BSKYB

RUNNING for your life through the night for 22 kilometres (14 miles), over mountainous hills in the freezing cold, with 28 kilograms (60lbs) of kit on your back and a machine gun in your hands does not sound much like doing a fan dance.

But the Fan Dance is the nickname given to what is reckoned to be probably one of the most gruelling military training exercises in the world. It's just one part of the British Army's Platoon Sergeant's Battle Course that takes place three times a year in the unforgiving terrain of the Brecon Beacons.

Now, for the very first time, television cameras have been allowed to film the efforts of 12 squaddies, as they bid to complete the course, in a new fly-on-the-helmet Sky One series called Battle Stripes. The Ministry of Defence granted permission for the cameras to capture every moment of the course that is so arduous it can reduce even the very strongest of men to mental and physical exhaustion and despair.

'These men will never in the future suffer so much,' says Captain Colin Ramsay, one of the officers who has the task of driving the men to the absolute limits of their courage and endurance. 'But their determination comes to the fore.

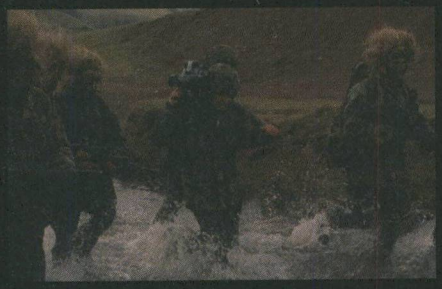
'When they are selecting candidates for the SAS they use Fan Dance as one of the tests, so you can see just how tough it is to get through it.'

The Battle Stripes cameras also capture the men on another strength-sapping test known as the Green Dragon. 'This is 18 kilometres but flatter,' says Captain Ramsay, 'and the men carry more weight than on Fan Dance. On Fan Dance they are just concentrating on finishing, but on Green Dragon they complete the distance then have to go into a live battle attack. So they have to keep sparky.'

The series shows that every effort is made to provide the men with the kind of infantry battle scenario they would face in a real war. They are kitted out appropriately, given a set of instructions and enemy positions and have to attack a village specially built in the Brecon Beacons with live ammunition and live grenades.

'The guys love it when the live bullets are firing,' says film maker Paul Berriff. He spent seven weeks as part of a four-man crew holding a lightweight camera just a bayonet's length away from the men to film it all, including a two-day battle where the squaddies are backed up by jet bombers and helicopters.

The BAFTA award-winning film maker's skills were put to the test during the filming of the 13-part series. It proved to be a difficult challenge. But however hard it was for the film crew, Berriff reserves his admiration for the soldiers



The gruelling course tests the men's endurance to the limit: 'It's the nearest thing to war there is'

themselves. 'For them the live battle scenario is the real McCoy. It looks spectacular, especially when tracers are going over our heads. It's the nearest thing to war there is.'

Of the dozen men who are filmed starting the seven-week course, three are seen dropping out from injury in the very first week. Of the rest who complete the punishing schedule, one fails.

The series captures all the punishing exercises, the fatigue, the sleep deprivation from three hours shut-eye a night in a makeshift, scraped-out, sodden burrow, the comradeship and the physical pain of running eight kilometres (five miles) in 75 minutes with a full kit on their backs and carrying a weapon. Most of all, it captures the sheer guts of the men, their refusal to give in and the elation for all but one as they reach for the prize at the end of the course – promotion to the rank of Sergeant.

The price of failure is high. For those who don't stay the distance, there may not be another chance to take the course for two years.

'There's a lot of pressure on them all,' says Captain Ramsay. 'Each man is representing his regiment, and from a personal point of view it's an important career step for each one.

'But they also all have to come together and gel as a team. If they achieve it, then they really will have something to hang their hat on.'

The corpse that fooled Hitler

NEW

Sixty years after the start of World War II, newly released secret papers have shed light on how it was won. Words: Tim Ewbank

WHEN the body of an apparently drowned British soldier washed up in Spain in 1943, little did the Germans know that it was part of one of the most elaborate hoaxes of World War II.

The corpse was in fact the body of a Welsh vagrant who had died in London of pneumonia. The military papers found on him by a German agent were false, deliberately planted by British naval intelligence to fool the Germans into thinking the Allies were going to invade Sardinia or Greece, when in fact they were planning to invade Sicily.

The story of just how the Germans fell hook, line and sinker for the hoax is one of dozens of remarkable revelations in a new 13-part UK Horizons series, Secrets of World War II, screened to coincide with the 60th anniversary of the start of the war.

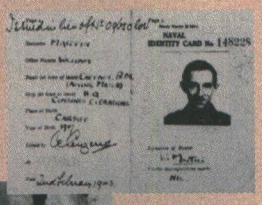
Although the papers on the dead man indicated the corpse was that of a Colonel Martin, it was in fact the body of homeless Glyndwr Michael who had tried to kill himself with rat poison after he had been turned down for military service. He was so depressed about not being able to join up that he tried to take his own life and then died of pneumonia.

Series producer Philip Nugus explains: 'Death by pneumonia has similar symptoms to death by drowning, so British naval intelligence were able to secretly drop his body by submarine into the Atlantic off the coast of Spain.'

It was found by a Spanish fisherman but a German agent active in the area soon got to know of it and he sent the letters found on the corpse to Berlin. Apart from a fake top secret letter from Lord Mountbatten to General Alexander about the Sardinia and Greece invasion, the corpse was given added authenticity. Also planted on the body were love letters from a fiance and even a letter from the man's bank manager telling him he had an overdraft.

Berlin's top brass swallowed the hoax and considerable numbers of German aircraft, tanks and troops were then moved from Sicily to Sardinia and Greece, leaving Sicily open for an Allied invasion. Philip Nugus says: 'It is a supreme irony that this Welshman, who tried to kill himself because he was so depressed about being turned down for military service, should have managed in death to save literally thousands of lives.' It is only now that Mr Michael's real identity has emerged from documents that have only recently become public under the ruling that secret information has to remain classified for 50 years.

Other revelations in the series include an interview with Hitler's butler – the last person to see him alive and the first to see him dead – and film of how Japan planned to destroy US timber supplies by sending 9000 explosive balloons across the Pacific to burn forests in California and Canada.



The death of Welsh tramp Glyndwr Michael, alias Colonel Martin, prompted one of the war's most elaborate hoaxes

Oh, what a beautiful Maureen

At first, Maureen Lipman was reluctant to take on her role in Oklahoma! But, as Daphne Lockyer explains, she's just a girl who can't say no

WHEN Trevor Nunn approached Maureen Lipman to appear in what was to become his ground-breaking version of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical Oklahoma!, she consulted her best pal, the actress Julia MacKenzie.

'Julia confirmed my worst fears, that if you don't have a song in a musical – and my character, Aunt Eller, doesn't – then you might as well be making the wigs. Then, we did the maths on the number of lines Aunt Eller says and, actors' egos being what they are, I thought, "I'm not doing this!"

'But Trevor is a hugely persuasive and talented director who assured me that Aunt Eller was absolutely central to his vision of this musical. And he didn't let me down. By the time I'd finished the year-long run, I felt that Aunt Eller had been the best and the most comedic role I'd ever played. I would not have missed playing her for the world.'

The extraordinary power of this production of Oklahoma! was such that Trevor Nunn was persuaded to capture it for posterity on film.

From the outset, after all, Nunn's vision, which had been more grittily real than the original version, had taken both the critics and the public by storm.

Having opened at London's National Theatre and moved to The Lyceum Theatre, Nunn and his company of actors and dancers then transferred to Shepperton studios, where they worked 16-hour days for three weeks to film the spectacle.

'I'm convinced that Trevor has a different pituitary gland to other people and that he needs neither food nor sleep,' Maureen laughs. 'A couple of times I had to say to him, quite firmly: "Trevor, I'm going home now or you're going to have a dead Aunt Eller on your hands."'

Not, of course, that Maureen is what you'd call a fair-weather performer. Far from it.

'I'm not very good at being bad at things. Once I've committed to something I tend to give myself 110 per cent,' she says.

Inspired by the youthful cast, the 53-year-old actress discovered new heights of personal fitness and stamina, despite the fact that in the previous year Maureen had undergone major surgery to remove a benign tumour on her spinal chord.

'I suppose the problem is that I've never really grown up myself and even though I'd told myself I'd take it easy, I'd watch them and think: "I can do that!"'

The role proved cathartic. 'Aunt Eller was a tough old bird with a heap of experience and wisdom,' says Maureen.

'All the characters referred to her and she was the moral heart of the production. She was like a withered old tree: you could bend her, but you couldn't break her.'

It was perhaps a parallel for Maureen's own life at that time. 'I suppose that playing Eller did give me back lots of the confidence that any major illness takes away from you. She put the gleam back in my eye.'

Not that the gleam ever truly deserts Maureen. She's famous for her humour in the face of adversity – a talent she shares with her husband, playwright and screenwriter Jack Rosenthal, who was one of the creative forces behind Coronation Street.

'We can usually dig our way out of most things with humour. Our ability to make each other laugh was one of the main things that attracted us in the first place.'

In years gone by, Maureen and Jack worked as a partnership to raise Amy and Adam, their now grown-up children. 'The humour has given us the ability to go through the dips together and, when you've been with someone for 29 years, there are bound to be a few of those.'

Aunt Eller isn't married. But Maureen is. Rather blissfully, it seems.

What Katie did next

She got married! Jane Oddy discovers that the professional cool of ITV2 presenter Katie Derham has been ruffled as her big day approaches.

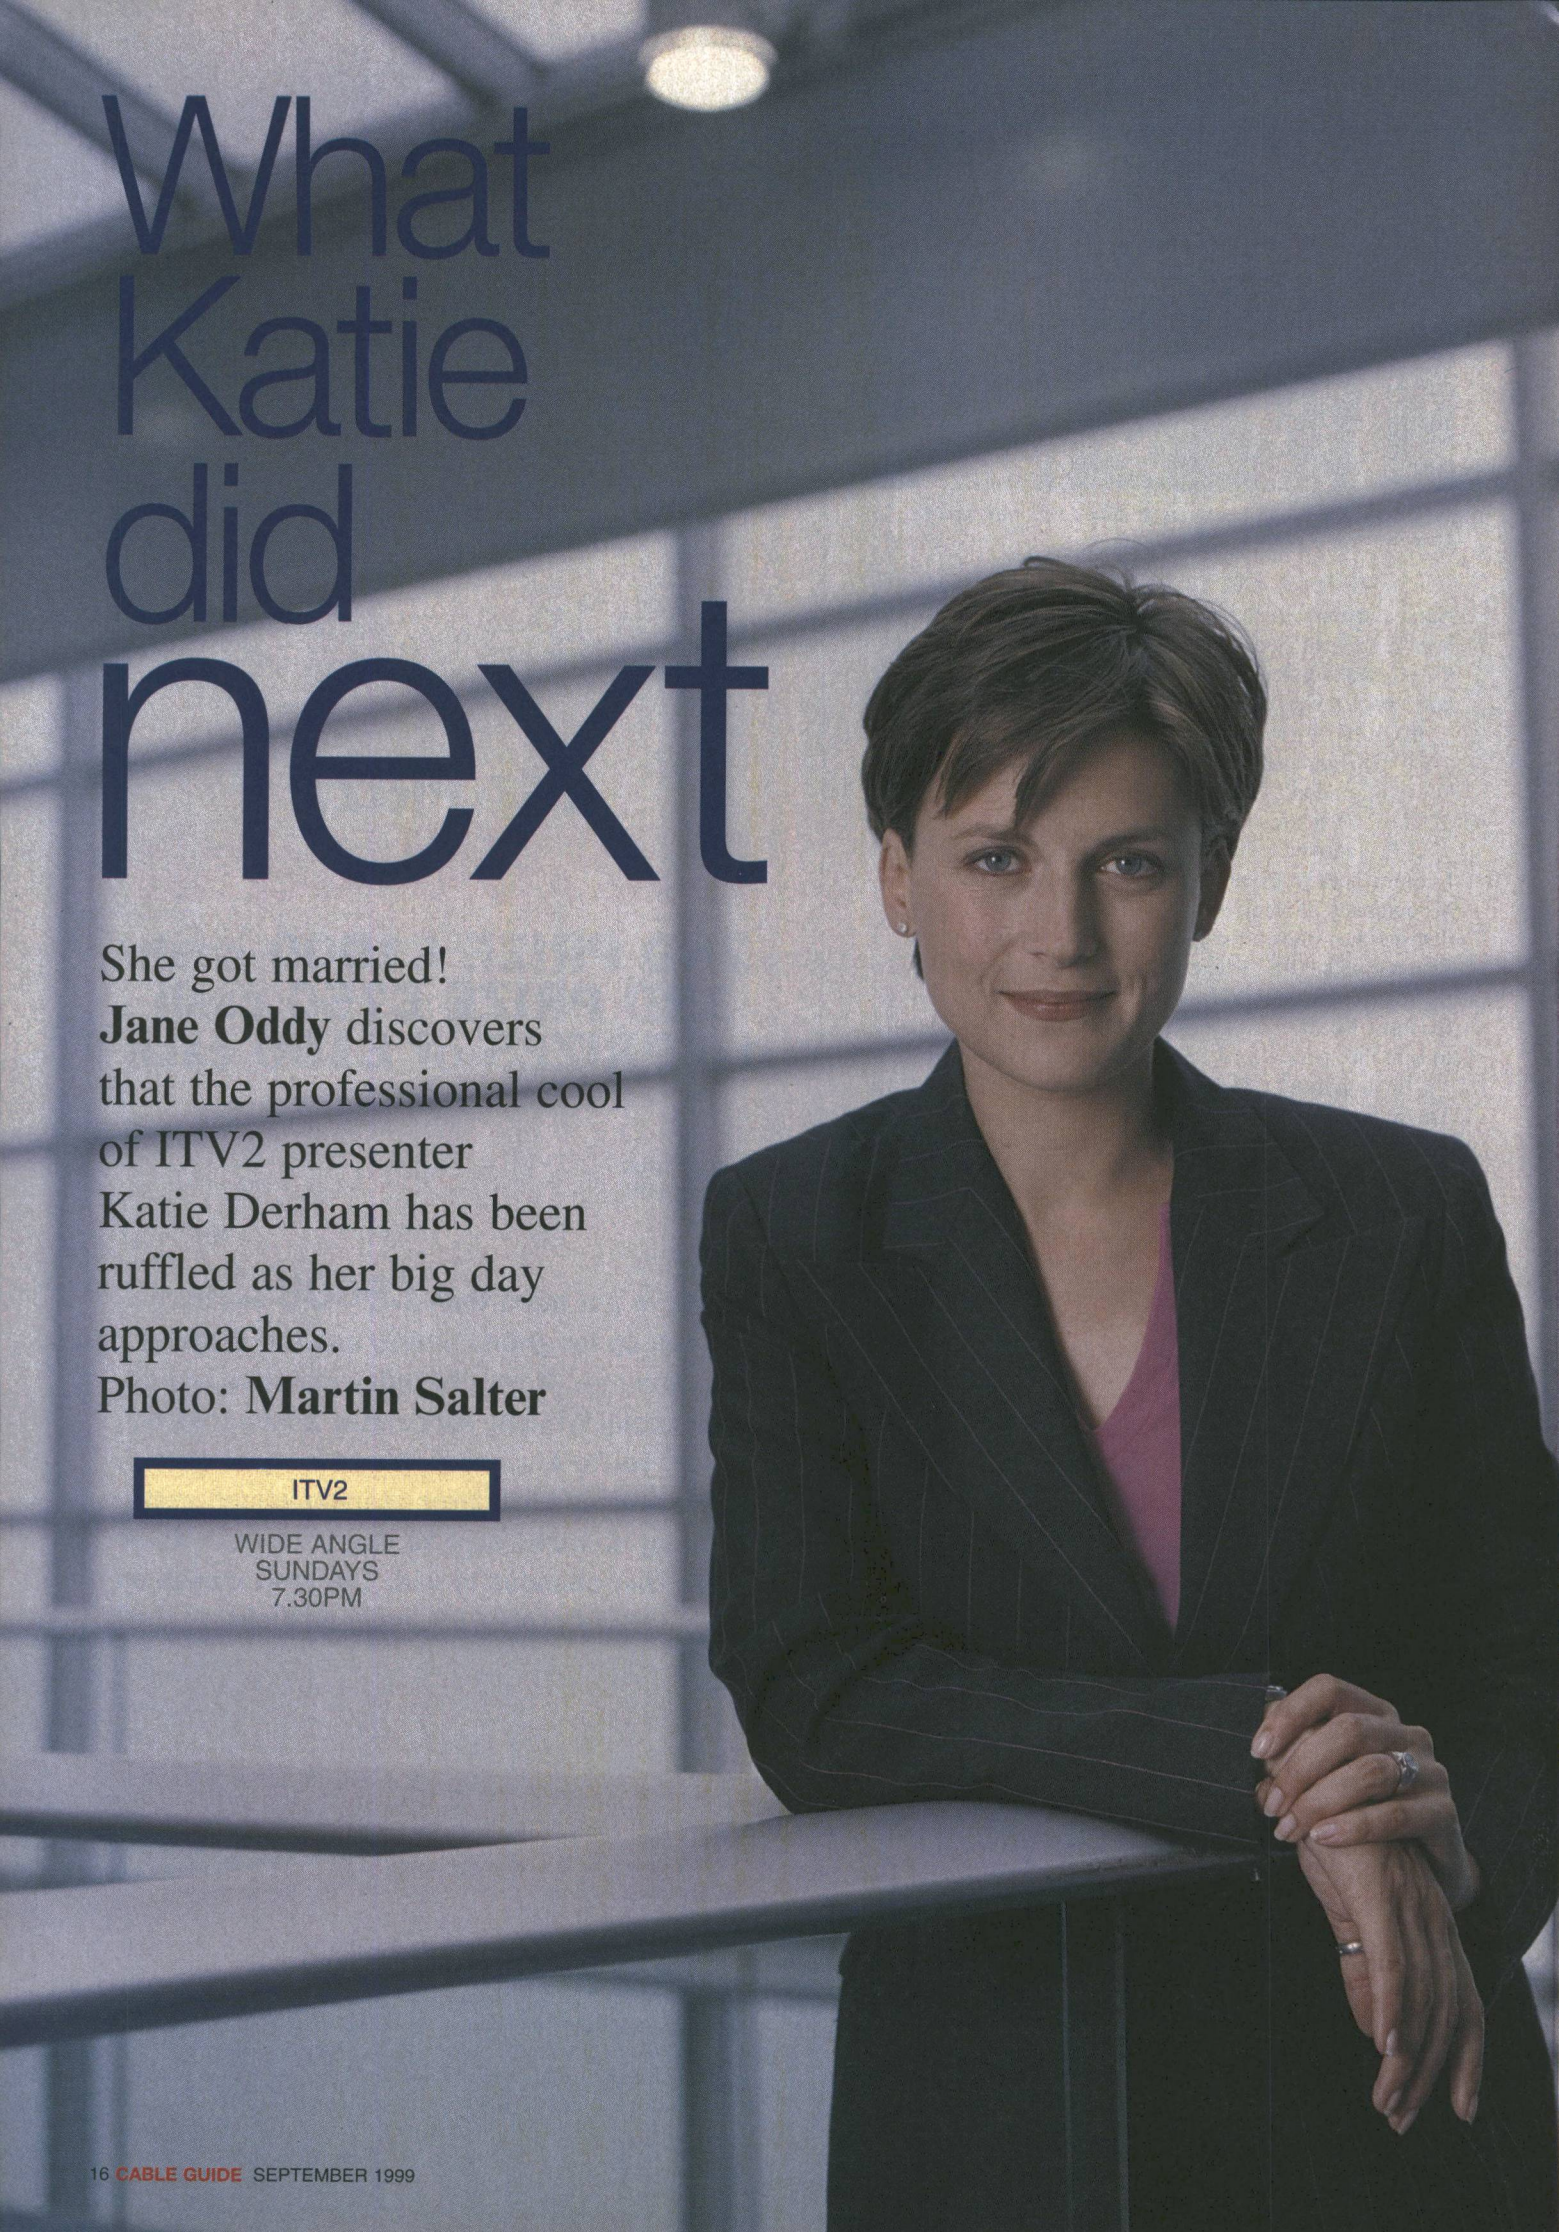
SUNDAYS
7.30PM



KATIE DERHAM says she is far more nervous about saying 'I do' in front of her family and friends this month than she was making her first broadcast as anchorwoman on ITN news before an audience of millions.

Always cool, calm and sophisticated when she's reading the news, the 29-year-old presenter is endearingly excited talking off-camera about her forthcoming nuptials in her home town of Wilmslow, Cheshire, on the first weekend in September. She frets that she will get too emotional when the vows are exchanged.

'I'm really looking forward to it and it will be a fantastic day, I know, but I'm sure I'll be quite choked up,' she says. On screen there are no hesitations, but it may be a different story for Katie on the big day: 'I was an usher at a friend's wedding recently and I couldn't stop crying. I'm a real blubberer. I'm going to be hopeless at my own,' she laughs.

The couple have deliberately kept the wedding understated and private – a bit like Katie herself. But as she talks she can't hide her feelings for management consultant John Vincent, 28, whom she met as a student at a Cambridge college party four years ago: 'He's tall, dark and handsome – well, I think he is,' she says.

At 29, the former Cambridge graduate is being tipped as the future face of broadcast news. She has the girl-next-door sex appeal of Channel 5's Kirsty Young and the sparky intellect of her ITN predecessor, Carol Barnes.

In person, she is great company and appears totally at home as she strolls around the ITN headquarters in London's Holborn before the afternoon news conference, looking every inch the power-dressed executive in a pinstripe suit. Her ITN boss Nick Dacre says she is 'one of the brightest youngsters in the industry'.

Katie was the youngest ever ITN news presenter when she started the job at 27 and now reads the weekend bulletins, is media and arts correspondent and does regular fill-ins for other programmes like News Nightly. 'I often finish late at night but I can usually manage to catch last orders and friends are understanding about the odd hours I work,' she says.

'I was petrified the first time I sat down in the news studio here because it was such a big deal. I hoped that not many people would be watching. It's almost like acting, you have to perform as a calm voice of reason.'

She also presents her own show, Wide Angle, on ITV2, in which she looks at topical events in the news each week from a different perspective. 'We cover everything from serious, dry issues like Greg Dyke's appointment at the BBC, right through to Posh Spice's wedding coverage in OK! magazine.'

Her career rise has been meteoric and TV bosses must have congratulated themselves on their foresight when she was voted New TV Talent of the Year at the 1999 Television and Radio Industry Club (TRIC) Awards.

But typically, Katie plays it down. 'I'm hardly a newcomer – I've been in television for three years! But it was a really lovely compliment and I keep my award on the mantelpiece.'

Nor will she be drawn into comparisons or rivalry with other female news presenters. 'I'm not trying to be the new Anna Ford or the next Kirsty Young. I'm not like anyone.'

A pretty, elfin-faced brunette, Katie is open and natural and never stops smiling. Hardly surprising, as she appears to have the perfect lifestyle. While she is often asked how much she earns, she will only say 'a lot' but it is thought to be about £72,000, so she certainly knows her worth.

She lives in a beautiful flat with John near London's Hyde Park, comes from a secure background with loving, middle-class parents – a top Fisons chemist and a French teacher – and is the second eldest of four siblings – two brothers and a younger sister who are all extremely close and proud of her success. So close that Elizabeth, 20, is flying home from Australia to be chief bridesmaid for Katie.

She laughs out loud when you tell her she has been described in the press as 'a sexy, saucer-eyed bush baby in a smart suit'. She admits that, yes, she does get saucy letters from men but is coy when questioned about their actual contents. 'I've had a few offers. Most of them are from dodgy student rugby teams!'

After gaining her economics degree at Magdalene College, Cambridge, Katie applied for a number of city jobs before admitting that what she really wanted was to work in journalism. She started as a researcher on Radio 4's Moneybox in 1993 and from then on, there was no looking back.

Katie appeared in several business programmes before transferring to TV, first as BBC consumer affairs correspondent. 'I took to it quite well but I never sat down when I was a little girl and said: "I want to be on telly." It was a progression. There are a lot of upsides to it and it's very stimulating. I can understand why people want to work in television but it just fell in my lap. I keep on pinching myself, wondering how I've managed to land on my feet like this.'

Before switching to ITN she worked as a reporter for Barry Norman's Film 97 and during her stint on the show she was sent to interview John Travolta in Cannes: 'He's a god of mine. Grease was a turning point in my life, aged seven. I thought he was so cool and yet I acted like a complete 12-year-old when I met him. And I've got a four-minute tape of me just simpering: "Anything you say, John!" I was awful.'

So far, though, it's been mostly plain sailing for Katie Derham – the only other blots to date were falling asleep and missing a plane while chasing a story in Alabama and famously, referring to a news bulletin as being at 'five to sex' instead of 'five to six'.

'I know I'll never live that one down but there are worse gaffes to be remembered for. People thought I did it on purpose to get the publicity,' she complains. As for being recognised, she is aware that the public notice her a lot more these days but says, modestly: 'I see people looking at me and they're probably thinking: "Did I go to school with her? Or does she serve behind the cheese counter at Waitrose?"'

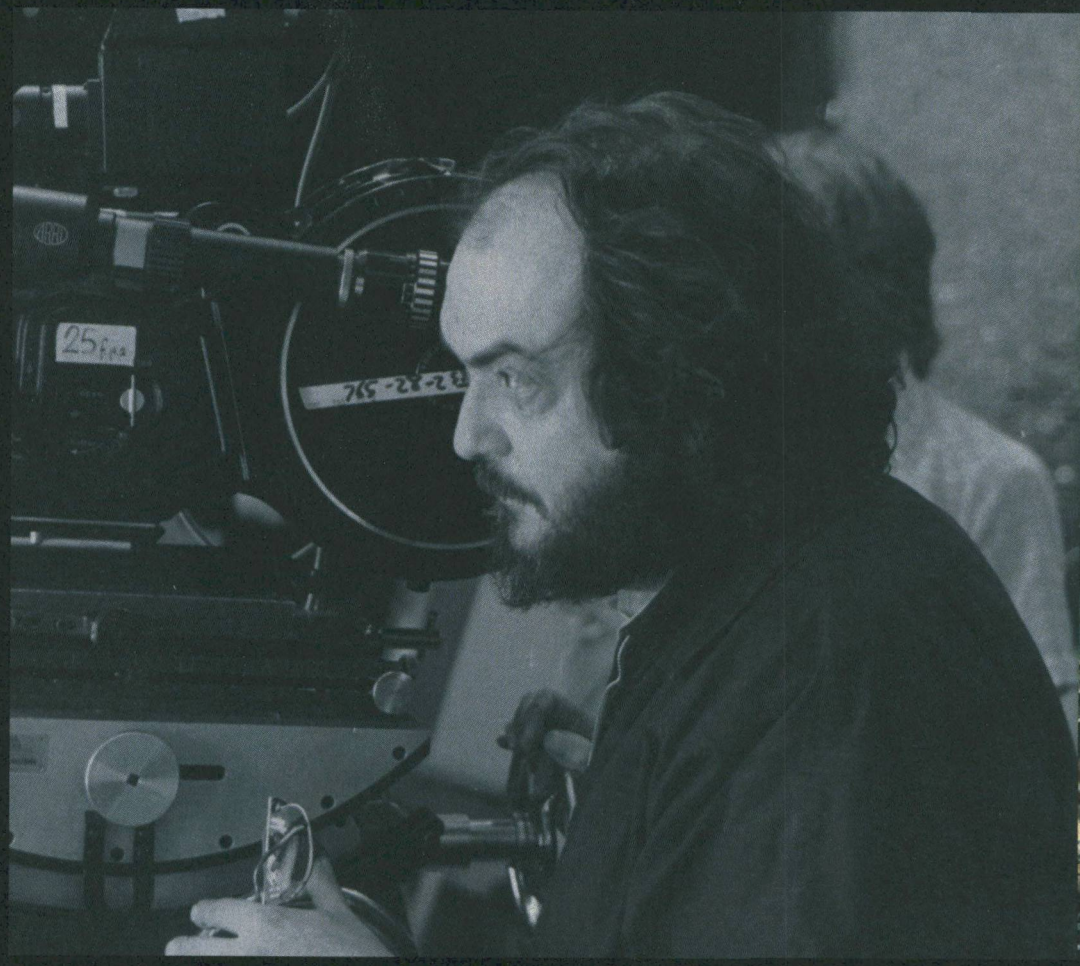
Kubrick: a sc

When director Stanley Kubrick died in March, the film world was robbed of one of its true visionaries. Kim Newman reflects on the legacy of the remarkable movies he left behind



Obsessive tyrant or eccentric genius? Stanley Kubrick on set

'ALL I'VE ever asked of my Marines,' claims an officer in Full Metal Jacket, 'is that they obey my orders as they would the word of God.'

It's a chilling comic moment, summing up the film's indictment of a military system that makes knee-jerk murderers or zombie madmen of raw recruits. An added bite is that it seemed to be the working method of the movie's director, the late Stanley Kubrick, to whom FilmFour pay tribute this month.

It's probably impossible to make a great movie without being an obsessive tyrant, but Kubrick – who made more great movies than anyone of his generation – took things to extremes. During the 12-year gap between Full Metal Jacket and his last feature, the posthumously released Eyes Wide Shut, Kubrick became famous as an eccentric: the qualified pilot so afraid of flying that he made films set in Vietnam, outer space or Colorado within driving distance of his Hertfordshire home; the perfectionist who dragged out shooting schedules by making 60 or 70 takes of even the simplest shots; the slowcoach who kept Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman locked up for over a year during the making of Eyes Wide Shut; the visionary transgressor who wanted to make a big-budget porno movie with A-list stars.

Survivors of Kubrick's rough shoots all had war stories. In a scene in which he nearly drowns in A Clockwork Orange, Malcolm McDowell missed the underwater tube he was supposed to breathe through but was unable to signal for help. In footage shot on the set of The Shining by his daughter, Vivian, Kubrick is heard ordering his crew 'don't sympathise with Shelley,' as star Shelley Duvall has something close to a nervous collapse. 'You appreciate all the pain,' the actress claimed. Kubrick loved long takes that show just how much punishment his actors are enduring. In Spartacus, trainee gladiator Kirk Douglas becomes part of a lethal machine, skipping and ducking to avoid being battered by revolving clubs; in 2001: A Space Odyssey, Gary Lockwood runs the whole length of the revolving spaceship several times, jogging in place in a centrifuge; and the Full Metal Jacket basic training scenes contain sustained shots of synchronised jogging to demonstrate that the extras really were drilled to perfection.

Originally a still photographer, Kubrick made several shorts in the early Fifties then scraped together funds for his feature debut, Fear and Desire, in 1953. Later, he devoted considerable effort to making Fear and Desire a lost film, just as he decreed in reaction to a censorship kerfuffle that A Clockwork Orange should not be seen in the United Kingdom. Like Tarantino four decades later, he first made an impression with low-budget crime movies: Killer's Kiss (Saturday 11th, 11.10pm) and The Killing (Sunday 12th, 9.00pm). Killer's Kiss is a fascinating film, as much for the failings Kubrick would never repeat as for the strengths he would build on. A climactic fight in a warehouse full of dismembered mannequins is a true Kubrick set-piece, the first of his many depictions of petty, struggling humanity as irrelevant insects in an absurd, hostile and lofty universe. The Killing, a classic of the heist-gone-wrong sub-genre, hops back and forth in time over a 24-hour period as a gang of sad men contrive a perfect robbery that inexorably goes wrong as the human element – and a cheap suitcase – lets the criminals down.

After that, Kubrick made only masterpieces. Even the films misunderstood and disliked on their first release – which means most of them, aside from Paths of Glory and Dr Strangelove – have grown in stature with the passing of time. Lolita, written off for adding two years to the heroine's age, compares amazingly well with the recent Adrian Lyne version, and elicits from James Mason a performance of agonised love that illuminates a Kubrick fascination with the thorny knots of personal relationships, which didn't surface again until Eyes Wide Shut. 2001: A Space Odyssey and the period piece Barry Lyndon (Sunday 12th, 6.00pm), deemed picturesque bores, have dated far better than more obvious, exciting movies like Star Wars and Tom Jones, making the future and the past into truly strange, yet convincing environments, presenting every tiny detail with a precision that stays in the mind. A Clockwork Orange, though hard to see, remains a horrifyingly accurate vision from the vantage point of 1971 of what life in the 1980s, with housing estate crime and 'care in the community', was actually like. Kubrick's Stephen King adaptation The Shining and his Vietnam opus Full Metal Jacket, which came along late in their respective genres after Carrie and Platoon had taken the high ground, look like deeper, more disturbing and (crucially) far funnier movies than the competition. Eyes Wide Shut has opened to better reviews than any Kubrick film since Dr Strangelove, though there are significant nay-sayers out there; I confidently expect not to understand it until 2010.

No other filmmaker of his time created so many indelible images of monstrousness or tragedy, but all his films are at heart black, bitter comedies. He said that he tried to make Dr Strangelove as a straight picture about nuclear war, but it only made sense as a 'nightmare comedy' – most of the truly absurd, dreadful things in it (like the atom bomb base slogan Peace Is Our Profession) are true. He liked big stories (usually drawn from top-of-the-second-division novels), big stars (Ryan O'Neal in Barry Lyndon and Jack Nicholson in The Shining were as attention-grabbing in their day as Cruise and Kidman are now) and big effects (armies of people swarm over the landscape in Spartacus, Barry Lyndon and Full Metal Jacket) but he felt that people were small. His characters often stare directly out of the screen at us as the camera draws away from or closes in on their fixed eyes. His own gaze was melancholic, wryly amused and contemptuous, but fundamentally as unreadable as that of the Star Child that brings 2001: A Space Odyssey to an end.

Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise, stars of Eyes Wide Shut, have given exclusive interviews about their time working with Kubrick to the makers of The Last Movie, a documentary about the latter part of his career. The documentary also features interviews with fellow directors Steven Spielberg and Sydney Pollack, and Kubrick's widow Christiane, among others. It will be screened first on Channel Four and then in a special extended version on FilmFour on Sunday 12th, 10.40pm.

She's talented, beautiful and ambitious, so why shouldn't film show hostess Jessica Whittaker succeed in showbusiness? After all, it's in her blood. Interview: Jane Oddy. Photo: Mark Harrison

THE fact that Jessica Whittaker is the daughter of world famous crooner Roger Whittaker is almost immaterial. She has never needed to trade on her famous connections as she more than holds her own as a talented presenter and TV personality.

The sophisticated 26-year-old started playing to the crowd at an early age when she appeared on stage with her dad. The confidence instilled in her as a child has made her a screen natural, and she has the added advantage of looking like a model.

One men's style bible recently described her as 'a fully functioning smart kind of top girl'. She pulls a face when this comment is repeated to her, but it's probably true.

Sparky and articulate, Jessica admits that she has found her niche hosting p:review as she is passionate about film: 'I've always loved movies because they are an escape from life and a good film writer and director can make you think of things in a different way,' she says.

Working alongside Barry Norman is a dream come true, she says: 'He's a guru. I listen to everything he has to tell me. When I covered the Oscars he just told me to "be myself". It was very generous of him to let me do it.'

The pair went out to Los Angeles together to cover the event for Sky Premier and Jessica did a live lead from Tinseltown, interviewing some of her favourite movie idols. 'The day went by in a flash. It was a bunfight and it's not for the faint-hearted. I was standing up for 14 hours interviewing stars. The only break I got in the entire period was to stop at a restaurant and use the loo and get a takeaway cappuccino!'

Not that she is afraid of hard work: 'I've always wanted to be famous and I'm extremely ambitious. As a child, if someone produced a cine camera I was always at the front of the shot.'

One of five children, Jessica lived between Cambridge and London with parents Roger and Natalie when she was growing up.

She was used to rarely seeing her father, as the 62-year-old singer, who found fame with hits like Durham Town and The Last Farewell, was always on tour around the world, particularly in Germany and the USA.

She recalls: 'I thought that seeing him four times a year was great – it was all I knew. But I don't think it was a bad thing. There is a lot of love in my family and dad was always there for us, even if it was only over the phone.'

She went to the stage school, Arts Educational, in Tring, Hertfordshire, with actress Thandie Newton, and the pair are now best of buddies. Trained in performance dance, singing and acting, it gave her a head start when she went on the road with Roger. 'From the age of 17 to 20 I toured with dad and saw the whole of the States, standing in and singing solo in front of the crowds of 35,000 while he went off stage and drank tea. I wasn't frightened of the stage or anything.

'In fact, I've had to tone it down for the camera as I've got a very expressive face.

When I first started doing camera work, I had to stand in front of the mirror and stop my eyebrows and lips moving – I looked like Elvis Presley!'

Jessica has taken her time to find her vocation. She has lived in Amsterdam and au paired in Paris after she left school. Then at 20, she decided to go to Leeds University where she got a 2:1 degree in American Studies and English and formed a folk band called The Bit People.

Her career in television started two years ago when she took over from Toyah Willcox presenting on VH1. She had caught the bug when she did a promotional video for a friend: 'I thought I'd love to carry on with this and earn money doing it,' she says.

She had a short spell as fashion presenter on the Living channel and then fronted Spice, VH1's late-night pop show.

She covered last summer's music festivals and made a show reel which she sent to Sky. They immediately called her in: 'They took me on a week later. It's a dream come true.'

She lives with her boyfriend, musician Finn Greenhall, in a flat in north London: 'I have a thing about musos. Give me a pair of leathers and I'm anyone's!' she laughs.

'Finn's work is beautiful, it's really ethereal. It's very funny – when people meet us, they say that we're chalk and cheese. It's part of the reason we found each other.'

The couple have been together for five years. 'We're really, really happy. Finn is very open-minded and never gets jealous. I'm very lucky. But don't mention the "m" words – marriage and mortgage!' she laughs.

'I'm not interested in responsibility to that extent. I can't see myself getting married yet or having children.' She is open-minded about her future career path: 'I'm interested in music. I'd like to do some documentary-based stuff and I have a few ideas. But film is my greatest love – I see about four films a week – so if I can stay in movies I'll be very happy. If Barry can teach me more, I'd love to learn from him!'

This month's movies on-demand from Sky Box Office

Win a week on a ranch in Texas

Purchase The Horse Whisperer on Sky Box Office in September and you'll automatically get the chance to win a trip to the Mayan Dude Ranch in Texas. As well as a chance to ride the trails, take part in hay rides and square dances, there are plenty of opportunities to relax by the pool and absorb the atmosphere.

There is one prize holiday and this includes seven nights full board for two people with return flights from London. No purchase is necessary, see Teletext page 500 on Channel 50 for full Terms and Conditions.

The Truman Show

Acclaimed comedy starring Jim Carrey as a man who begins to suspect that his perfect existence in an ideal American town is not quite right. What he could never have suspected is that his entire life is a giant hoax and he is the unwitting star of a world-wide soap opera.
Sky PG, Text Premiere

Lolita

Controversial adapatation of the novel by Vladimir Nabokov, starring Jeremy Irons as the man who becomes obsessed by his stepdaughter Lolita (Dominique Swain) – an obsession that ends in tragedy. With Melanie Griffith.
Sky 18 (L,V,S,M), Text Premiere

Paulie

There's family fun galore in this birds' eye view of life. Paulie is a super-smart talking parrot who goes on a cross-country escapade and meets an oddball assortment of people. With Gena Rowlands and Cheech Marin. Sky U, Text Premiere

Mr Nice Guy

The master of martial arts mayhem, Jackie Chan, stars as a karate-kicking TV chef who gets caught up in a drug lord's search for an incriminating video. Plenty of action, spectacular stunts and hilarious comedy.
Sky 15 (V), Text Premiere

Sliding Doors

Bittersweet British comedy starring Gwyneth Paltrow that follows two different storylines about the developments in a woman's life – one in which she misses a train, the other in which she catches it. Also starring John Hannah.
Sky 15 (L,V,S)

Lethal Weapon 4

The smart-mouthed cop twosome are back – this time Mel Gibson and Danny Glover are on the trail of Chinese triads. Thrilling action and witty dialogue abound, plus there's newcomer Jet Li's stunning martial arts skills. Sky 15 (L,V), Text Premiere Term & Conditions: 1. Prices correct as at 1st September 1999 and inclusive of VAT at 17.5%. 2. The price of each movie/event will be added to your monthly bill. 3. The next time you fancy a great night in, here's where to look – Sky Box Office, our movies on-demand service.

Only £2.95 per movie

You can see the best blockbusters months before they appear on any other UK channel, for just £2.95 a movie. You'll find all the films listed here every month – and there are exciting previews on TV Today on Channel 50. So take a look at what we've got to offer – and then get the best seat in the house.

How to order your movie

It's easy to order using your remote control. Simply tune in to Channel 50 and follow the instructions shown on TV Today.
(Remote control ordering is not yet available in all areas. It will be become available when the Cable & Wireless Digital Service is launched in 1999).

If you have any questions, you can phone the free TV on-demand helpline on 0500 60 10 50. Now all you have to do is choose what you want to watch.
Sky Box Office is not yet available in Millharbour, New Ash Green, Buckinghamshire and South Herts.

Lock, Stock & Two Smoking Barrels

This Brit hit is a slick and stylish drama about four young villains who hatch a plot to steal enough money to pay off their debt to a local gangster. Starring Vinnie Jones, Dexter Fletcher, Nick Moran, Jason Flemyng and Jason Statham.
Sky 18 (L,V,S,M), Text Premiere

Deep Rising

There's action aplenty in this horror thriller set aboard an ocean liner. When a group of pirates board the ship intending to rob its passengers, they find that someone – or something – has beaten them to it. Everyone is dead and the thing is still on the loose. With Treat Williams and Famke Janssen. Sky 15 (L,V), Text Premiere

The Horse Whisperer

Robert Redford and Kristen Scott Thomas star in this emotional romantic drama. After a riding accident leaves a young girl and her horse psychologically damaged, the girl's mother takes them to the remote ranch of the horse whisperer – an enigmatic man with the power to heal their wounds ... Sky PG, Text Premiere

Godzilla

A special effects spectacular featuring the legendary lizard, which has grown to incredible proportions thanks to French nuclear testing. When Godzilla threatens to destroy New York, a radiation expert (Matthew Broderick) and a French investigator (Jean Reno) must try to save the day. Sky PG, Text

The Newton Boys

The affectionate story of America's most successful banks robbers – the Newton brothers. Set in the roaring Twenties, the boys perpertrated their crimes with daring, skill and a strict code of honour. Starring Matthew McConaughey, Skeet Ulrich, Ethan Hawke and Vincent D'Onofrio.
Sky 15 (V), Text Premiere

Dr Dolittle

Eddie Murphy stars in this family comedy as the creature-friendly doc who discovers, after a bump on the head, that he can talk to animals. It turns out that the animal kingdom is just as full of smart alecs and jokers as the human world. Sky PG, Text

FILM PLANNER

IN THE FRAME

JOAN COLLINS

BY HILARY BONNER

What is your favourite movie and why?
Some Like It Hot, because it boasts three of the greatest performances you will ever see, and director Billy Wilder is a genius.

Who is your favourite actor?
Robert De Niro.

Who is your favourite actress?
Vivien Leigh.

What is your first movie memory?
Going to see Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs when I was a child.

What is your favourite movie memory?
Probably the first time I saw a Billy Wilder film, which, I think, was Sunset Boulevard.

What is the scariest moment you've seen on film?
Strangely enough it could be from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. I have always been absolutely petrified by the moment when the witch says 'mirror, mirror'.

What is your favourite horror film?
I don't like them.

What is your favourite comedy?
Plains, Trains and Automobiles.

What is your favourite sci-fi film and why?
Star Wars, it's just sensational.

What's your favourite weepie and why?
The Way We Were with Robert Redford and Barbra Streisand. I found it so moving.

Of all the films you have appeared in, which is your favourite?
It would have to be the one I've just made with Nigel Hawthorne, The Clandestine Marriage.

Sky Sports' Ewen Murray tells Brian Viner why paying the Ryder Cup golfers would devalue the event

WHEN old Samuel Ryder donated a gold cup for a biennial golf match between teams representing Great Britain and the United States, he cannot have had any idea of the thrills, spills and controversy that would take place in his name. Ryder was a wealthy St Albans-based seed merchant. He paid £250 for the trophy, which back in 1927 was a very considerable sum indeed. But over the years, it has proved a worthwhile investment. Some of golf's most electric moments have taken place in the Ryder Cup, especially since 1979, when life was breathed back into the venerable contest with the inclusion of European players. In the 22 matches before that, Great Britain had won only three times.

But with the inclusion of men such as Seve Ballesteros and Bernhard Langer, and the blossoming of such British players as Nick Faldo, Sandy Lyle and Ian Woosnam, American hegemony was firmly ended. Now, the Ryder Cup is a very serious contest indeed, and this month, at The Country Club in Brookline, Boston, Massachusetts, the Americans will be trying their utmost to regain the trophy, which once they considered theirs almost by divine right.

Whether they will do so with their two best players, Tiger Woods and David Duval, has in recent months been in some doubt. The Ryder Cup teams have traditionally gone unpaid, playing simply for the honour of their countries.

'The trophy was given by Samuel Ryder as a bond of friendship. Threatening to withdraw if they are not paid is like snatching the ball and saying, "I'm going home."'

Tiger Woods of the USA

Woods and Duval have called for this arrangement to end, insisting that, as professionals, they should be recompensed for their efforts. Shame on them, says Ewen Murray, golf commentator for Sky Sports. 'If they get paid then the Ryder Cup should be scrapped, that's how strongly I feel about it,' says Murray. 'The trophy was given by Samuel Ryder as a bond of friendship. Threatening to withdraw if they are not paid is like snatching the ball and saying, "I'm going home." It's sickening.'

The income from the Ryder Cup, Murray explains, is ploughed back into the sport at grass-roots level. This year, the event is expected to make more than $60 million, and even though expenses may top $40 million, that still leaves a handsome sum to be shared between the Professional Golfers Associations of Europe and the USA. 'Maybe Woods and Duval haven't thought about that,' says Murray. 'The chances they got in college were subsidised, in part, by the Ryder Cup. So if they devalue the event, they will have that on their shoulders. Woods, of course, is the greatest player in the world. He is the best thing that has happened to golf since Arnold Palmer arrived on the scene over 40 years ago. But he's only 23. Palmer, who is 70 this month, says that it was actually fun playing for honour rather than money. So I think we should listen to him, not Tiger Woods.'

As for 44-year-old Murray himself, though a decent player in his day and once the Junior World Champion, he never qualified for the Ryder Cup team. And deeply regrets it. 'I got reasonably close in 1979,' he says. 'I'd love to have played.' He recalls the dramatic events of the 1969 Cup at Royal Birkdale. On the final hole in the final singles match, Tony Jacklin needed to hole a three-foot putt to tie the contest. However, his opponent, Jack Nicklaus, generously conceded it, saying he didn't want anyone to miss a short putt to lose the Ryder Cup. Such sportsmanship now is merely a dim memory. In 1991, the match at Kiawah Island in South Carolina was dubbed 'The War on the Shore', a perception inflamed by the American player Corey Pavin, who sported a combat cap. This aggression was untypical of golf, which, despite everything, is still considered to be the most well-behaved of leading sports.

In 1993, the opposing captains, Bernard Gallacher and Tom Watson, urged their players not to get as steamed up as they had at Kiawah. But for all that, the 1991 match was one of the most exciting of all, hanging on a single Bernhard Langer putt – which, alas, he missed.

That year also produced what Ewen Murray considers to be one of the most gripping of all Ryder Cup encounters, a ding-dong fourball match between Ballesteros and José Maria Olazábal for Europe, and Fred Couples and Payne Stewart for the United States. The European pair were two down with three holes to play but fought back to square the match. 'It was pitch black when they finished, and I have this image of Ballesteros and Olazábal silhouetted against the night sky,' recalls Murray. Let us hope that Brookline 1999 offers similar magic. Followed, of course, by the right result.

RYDER CUP – SEE IT LIVE ON SKY SPORTS

The 33rd Ryder Cup promises to be one of the most exciting in the history of the event. Sky Sports has complete live coverage, including the opening ceremony on Thursday 23rd on Sky Sports 1 at 9.00pm. Past winners

Because of home advantage the USA are marginal favourites to win the 1999 Ryder Cup. In terms of matches, won the Americans lead Europe by 23 to 7. In 1979 the first European players were introduced and six years later the balance of power began to be redressed.

BRADFORD CITY V TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR
SKY SPORTS 1 SUNDAY 12TH 3.00PM – LIVE

Bantam menace

Bradford City's fighting spirit could hold the key to their Premier League survival, as Steven Hutton reports

WHEN Bradford City entertain Tottenham Hotspur at Valley Parade this month, it will be the first time the Premier League new boys feature in a game covered live on TV in the top-flight. Bradford manager Paul Jewell is determined to prove critics wrong who say they will go straight back down to the First Division. 'All we have to do is go out and give it our best shot, and I think we will surprise one or two people,' said Jewell.

Bradford experienced a dramatic end to last season when they clinched the last automatic promotion place with a win at Wolves. 'For the fans, the players, the coaching staff, the chairman, it means everything to be in the Premier League,' added Jewell. 'We worked ever so hard last year, and it's through a combination of years of hard work with lots of guts and good football that we got there [the Premier League]. We don't want to give that all away.'

Spurs boss George Graham will be determined to get all three points at Valley Parade and Jewell is fully aware of Tottenham's capabilities. 'Tottenham are a very good side, and it will certainly be a stern test, but there won't be any easy games this year,' Jewell acknowledges. 'Everyone will be talking about David Ginola, but they have quality right through their side. However, we don't feel inferior to them. We have got just as much right as anyone to be here, so we've got to give it our best shot.'

For a manager from Liverpool, Jewell has expressed the grit and determination of a Yorkshireman, and that will stand him in good stead as Bradford embark on their first season in the top-flight in 77 years.

JACK OF ALL TIRADES

It's a bold move to make the protagonist of your film an angry, argumentative bigot, but writer-director James L Brooks does just that in the premiere of As Good as It Gets – and pulls it off with real panache at the service of a story that's uproariously funny, sweetly romantic and genuinely touching. An inspired, cruelly comic creation, Jack Nicholson's spitefully rude novelist Melvin Udall is surely one of the most mean-spirited characters in recent memory. But, thanks to a smart script and the puckish abandon with which Nicholson approaches this surprisingly complex part, the viewer is willing to forgive Melvin his more tasteless tirades and may even admit a grudging fondness for him by the film's end. Brooks is a deft director of actors and encourages enjoyable, Oscar-winning performances from the iconic Nicholson (notching up his second such award under Brooks's tutelage, the first being a best supporting actor gong for Terms of Endearment) and his co-star, Mad About You's Helen Hunt.

Melvin is an author of popular romances – though, tellingly, he seems incapable of feeling the emotions he explores so eloquently in his books – who suffers from obsessive compulsive disorder. An astonishingly bad-tempered man, he hurls homophobic abuse at his gay artist neighbour, Simon (Greg Kinnear), whose dog Melvin throws down a rubbish chute at the beginning, and terrorises the staff of a local restaurant, where he insists that one waitress, the long-suffering Carol (Hunt), devotes all her attentions to him. But Melvin is also capable of making genuinely tender and generous gestures: he pays for specialist health care for Carol's sick son (though this is partly so Carol can return to the restaurant and cater to Melvin's every eccentric whim) and, after Simon is attacked in his apartment by thugs, Melvin drives him to visit his parents, whom Simon must ask for money. Carol grudgingly agrees to join them, and in the tradition of such comic road movies as Planes, Trains and Automobiles, in which incompatible characters find themselves thrown together in a cross-country adventure, the scene is set for a journey that will generate uncomfortable emotions, heart-warming humour and moments of poignancy. The fine performances drive the film, but its technical credits are impeccable, too, with John Bailey deserving particular praise for such artful camerawork as a stylised sequence (worthy of an MGM musical) in which disembodied feet dash out of the way as Melvin nimbly dances over the cracks in the pavement.

WAR AND REMEMBRANCE

Sixty years ago this month, Britain declared war on Germany, after Adolf Hitler's army had swept into Poland and massacred the country's inadequately equipped forces with their Panzer tank divisions. To mark one of the defining events of the 20th century, The History Channel devotes this weekend to programmes about the first truly global war, and discusses such key figures as Churchill, Hitler and Montgomery. With battles being waged in the skies and beneath the ocean waves, and from the sun-scorched deserts of North Africa to the freezing snowscapes of Russia, the conduct and the weapons of war were forced to change at a faster pace than ever before. No other war has been fought on such a scale and seen such destruction. The war saw Britain emerge as a supreme maritime force, a fact epitomised in the dramatic and courageous sinking of the German battleship Bismarck (pictured), even though it resulted in the loss of the British battlecruiser HMS Hood and all but three of her 1400-strong crew. The documentary Sink the Bismarck pays tribute to these heroic seamen, whose deaths serve as tragic reminders as to why the war was fought and why it had to be won.

The History Channel from Saturday 4th 2.00pm

WILL KEEGAN SILENCE THE EURO SCEPTICS?

England's World Cup hangover has haunted them all through the qualifiers for Euro 2000. With injuries, suspensions and a fair bit of poor football blighting their European bid, Kevin Keegan's team have left themselves with the task of trying to reach next summer's finals via the dreaded play-offs. The national side's inconsistent form has seen them stumble against Sweden and Bulgaria, and, for this Saturday's crunch clash at Wembley with Group 5 strugglers Luxembourg, skipper Alan Shearer (pictured) will be aiming to inspire a sense of team spirit that was sorely lacking in England's goalless draw against the Swedes in June. While the visitors have no hope of qualification (they have failed even to win a single point in their campaign), they will be playing for pride – though when the two teams met in Luxembourg last October England romped away with a 3-0 win. This weekend, England must put behind them a nightmarish 12 months and wear the Three Lions with pride, as only a thumping win will lift their battered morale and keep their chances of playing in next year's finals alive.

US OPEN
SKY SPORTS 2 4.00PM, 12.30AM
by Ross Biddiscombe

Two more live sessions from the US Open at Flushing Meadows in New York on the tenth day of the championships, where Australia's Patrick Rafter defends his men's title. With home players Pete Sampras and Andre Agassi in such good form this year, an American in the men's final is a short odds bet. In the women's event, Lindsay Davenport might be the champion, but glamour-hungry New Yorkers will no doubt follow the teen-scene players led by Anna Kournikova.

CANON EUROPEAN MASTERS
SKY SPORTS 1 1.00PM

It's the start of the Canon European Masters today from Crans-sur-Sierre in Switzerland. Two of the strongest golfing nations in Europe provided the proponents of a classic finish to this event last year. Germany's Sven Strüver and Sweden's Patrik Sjöland could not be split after 72 holes. It took a birdie on the first sudden death play-off hole for Strüver to win, although since then it has been Sjöland who has proved the most consistent, reaching the top 60 of the world rankings.

Disney Channel introduces a completely new way to watch TV for under 5's.

Come on in to Playhouse Disney. Open every weekday from 9am to 2pm.

Playhouse Disney features brand new never-seen programmes, old favourites like Winnie the Pooh and original mini shows specially created to stimulate, excite and entertain your little ones.

And it's open five hours a day.

Their imagination will be stretched by Bear in the Big Blue House. They'll be exploring their creativity through Disney's Art Play. And household objects will never seem the same again after they've sung about them in Out of the Box!

Coverage of England's penultimate Euro 2000 qualifier against Luxembourg. England have paid the price for last year's shaky start to their qualifying campaign and Sweden's run of form has seen them consolidate their position at the top of the table. However, England can still finish in second place which would give them the chance of reaching next year's finals via the play-offs.
Luxembourg are not likely to cause the home side many problems and, because second place could still be decided on goal difference, this is a vital opportunity for England to try and score as many goals as possible.

LIVE
ENGLAND V LUXEMBOURG
SKY SPORTS 2 2.00PM

The early sparkle of Kevin Keegan's coaching of the England team seems to have worn thin already. This Euro 2000 qualifier at Wembley against Luxembourg will be another slog to a possible second place finish in the group. Captain Alan Shearer needs to fire his team-mates with the ambition for goals while young stars like Rio Ferdinand keep a clean sheet in defence. Only a substantial win against the part-timers will keep the fans and the press happy.

TV TELETEXT CHANNEL 4 PAGE 625

Clear Existing Loans & Credit Cards

and have just one lower monthly payment.

Here's how it works: lets say you have,

Credit cards : £3,000 costing £150.00 per month
Store card : £1,000 costing £ 50.00 per month
Car Finance : £4,000 costing £198.60 per month
£8,000 £398.60

A new loan of £13,000 from The Personal Loan Express at our typical APR of 11.4% for a loan of this amount would be £212.20 per month over 90 months, this would clear your existing commitments and leave you a balance of £5,000 to spend as you like and at the same time reduce your monthly outgoings by £186.40 per month*. WRITTEN QUOTES AVAILABLE ON REQUEST

Any Purpose Personal Loans £3,000 to £50,000

The Personal Loan Express, 182 Bath Street, Glasgow. G2 4HG.

*The above is an example of how to reduce your monthly commitments, it is not a comparison of interest rates as the products and the terms are diverse, it assumes you qualify for and take out a Personal Loan Express secured loan for £13,000 over 90 months at a typical APR of 11.4% (variable) without payment protection, there would be 90 monthly payments of £212.20. Total repayable £19,360.80. This is a typical rate. Subject to status. Credit card commitments are calculated at 5% of outstanding balance. Car finance assumes a loan of £4,000 over 24 months at 18.9% with the TSB. Monthly payments without insurance, £198.60 Total amount payable £4,766.40 Rates correct at time of going to press.

YOUR HOME IS AT RISK IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON A MORTGAGE OR ANY OTHER LOANS SECURED ON IT.

In just 3 weeks you'll have a six pack all worked out.

Why wait?

If you want a toned stomach fast, there's no substitute for a Slendertone Body Profile in your fitness programme. In just 3 weeks, this revolutionary exerciser can help give you washboard abs you'll be proud to bare. It contracts and relaxes your muscles, 240 times in only 40 minutes – imagine trying to do that number of sit ups. How can you go wrong?

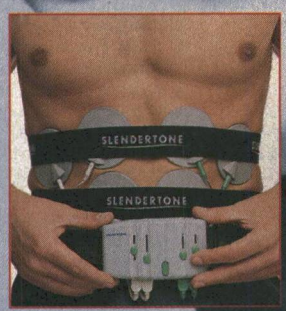
Proven exercise technique

It's all done with EMS.* – a tried and tested technique, developed over 30 years, which imitates the body's own natural exercise process. Trusted by physios, premier league footballers, other professional sportsmen and even NASA astronauts, EMS makes your muscles contract and relax automatically, so that every workout is safe, even when you're out of condition or temporarily out of action.

30 YEARS of research and development

Whenever, wherever you choose

To see those muscles working, position the EMS pads on your stomach, fix the battery-operated control unit round your waist and switch on. You can adjust the strength of each muscle contraction to warm up, reach a peak then cool down, giving you infinite control over your workout. And because Slendertone Body Profile is compact, portable and invisible under casual gear, you're free to exercise anywhere you choose. Even when you're busy doing other things.



Results that count

Used daily for just 3 weeks, you'll see a real improvement in muscle tone and definition. We're so confident that Slendertone Body Profile will work for you, we offer a full money-back refund if you're not impressed with the results within 30 days.

Easy payment

For less than the cost of gym membership, we promise a body worth getting your shirt off for. Payment can be made in 3 easy monthly instalments of just £39 (including postage and packing).†

So why wait? To try Slendertone Body Profile without commitment, post the order form below or call now on 0845 070 77 77.

* EMS or Electronic Muscle Stimulation is a tried and tested form of exercise pioneered by Bio Medical Research, the manufacturers of Slendertone.

*If you suffer any illness or ongoing medical condition please consult your doctor before ordering.

LOVE STARS BY MARGIE THILLART

SEPTEMBER BIRTHDAYS
2nd Keanu Reeves 9th Hugh Grant
15th Tommy Lee Jones 19th Jeremy Irons
29th Sophia Loren 25th Heather Locklear

Sensational ★★★ Stimulating ★★ Satisfactory ★

Aries
21 March-20 April ★★

THIS month marks a major turning point for those who have been stuck in a rut. Mars will act as a catalyst for changes by either bringing a current situation to a head, or providing new and exciting opportunities.

Taurus
21 April-21 May ★★

YOU could be inclined to trip up on your own mistakes this month, but no-one will doubt your good intentions. Rather than jumping into situations feet first, take time to consider the long-term implications.

Gemini
22 May-21 June ★★

IF YOU wish to co-exist peacefully with your partner, you'll need to tone down the sarcasm and stop making snap judgements. With Mars in your relationship zone there could be a tendency for you to speak before you think.

Cancer
22 June-23 July ★★

YOU have the gift of good communication, so use it to your best advantage. Your sign sometimes tends to beat around the bush, but your stars suggest a direct approach now will lead to much happier relationships later.

Leo
24 July-23 August ★★

THE planets bring harmony into one area of your life, but you may feel something is missing in another. Keep in close touch with those friends and loved ones who have a knack of bringing out the best in you.

Virgo
24 August-23 September ★★★

SUN in your sign augurs well for change and new beginnings. Someone may go to extraordinary lengths to win your heart or mind this month, but rest assured you will benefit personally from what they have to offer.

Libra
24 September-23 October ★★

MARS in sassy Sagittarius boosts your ego and makes you more alluring. People will be drawn to you this month, transforming the way you spend your spare time or spicing up your love life after months of monotony.

Scorpio
24 October-22 November ★★

THE focus may be on love and money, but be warned that self indulgence could easily be your undoing. Fortunately, those who have weathered a recent emotional or financial crisis will possess more will power.

Sagittarius
23 November-22 December ★★

IF YOU have been lacking in energy or motivation, you should make the most of dynamic Mars in your sign. Take on the role of organiser or initiator and watch how quickly those around you follow your lead.

Capricorn
23 December-20 January ★★

SLOWLY but surely you are making your mark after months of meticulous preparation and hard work. Things don't always come easy for your sign, but the wheel of fortune is finally spinning in your favour.

Aquarius
21 January-19 February ★★

YOU may be at your observant best this month, but there's also danger you'll be critical of others. Try to keep your standards and expectations realistic, and allow your loved ones the freedom they deserve.

Pisces
20 February-20 March ★★

OPPOSITES attract this month, but new relationships may not be long-lasting. Nothing will be quite as it appears on the surface, so try to ignore your first impressions and be prepared to question the motives of others.

ENGLAND V PREMIERSHIP ALL-STARS SKY SPORTS 3 7.00PM

Studying the form of the southern hemisphere nations this summer, has meant that England coach Clive Woodward accepts every chance to see his own charges in action. For the likes of experienced players like Jeremy Guscott this World Cup warm-up at Twickenham against a Premiership All-Stars XV – a team made up from English First Division players – will be little more than polite leg-stretching, but for some fringe squad members, their places could be on the line.

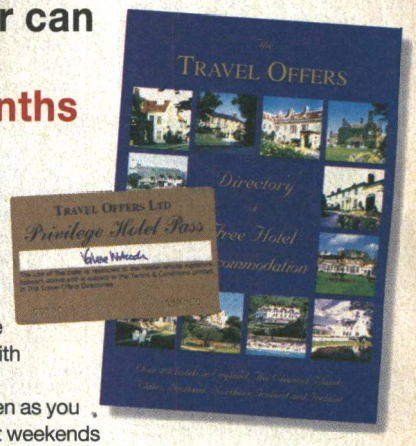
ALL YEAR ROUND

For only £23 you and a partner can STAY FREE in over 420 hotels as often as you like for 12 months



Treat yourself to a break whenever you choose - wherever you choose - as often as you choose.
With the Travel Offers Directory and Privilege Gold Hotel Pass you can take as many breaks as you wish over 12 months with FREE accommodation at over 420 hotels throughout the UK, the Channel Islands and Ireland.

How it works For just £23 (+ £2 p&p) you will receive the full colour 100 page Hotel Directory from Travel Offers, along with an exclusive Gold Hotel Pass. This allows you and a partner to STAY FREE in the 420+ hotels featured in the Directory - as often as you like - throughout a full twelve months. You can use your pass at weekends or during the week - for one night or more. Your accommodation, a twin or double room, is FREE - all you have to do is pay for meals (breakfast & dinner) from as little as £11.50 per person per day to over £30 for 4/5 crown luxury. Plus of course any extras such as drinks, phone calls etc. The cost of dinner and breakfast at each hotel is shown in the Directory.

Where you can stay The hotels participating in this offer are situated in some of the most impressive locations throughout England, Scotland, Wales, the Channel Islands, Northern Ireland and Ireland - with most having good AA, RAC or Tourist Board ratings. Many have awards for their cuisine or boast top leisure and sports facilities. Seaside, countryside, villages and towns - from splendid country houses to traditional inns and cosy family run hotels. The choice is yours. Take a look at a selection of hotels shown here and the savings you can make on just one night's stay.

The Travel Offers Directory is now in its 4th year with thousands of satisfied customers using the Gold Hotel Pass. Don't miss this opportunity to order yours!

FILM

The Ballad of Cable Hogue
Sky Cinema 11.35pm

Tough guy director Sam Peckinpah eschewed the operatic slow-mo slaughter of his previous film, the ultra-violent The Wild Bunch, for this gentle, elegiac comic Western. Jason Robards's begrimed, rascally drifter discovers water in the desert after being left for dead.

GENERAL

VH1 to One: Ronan Keating
VH1 4.00pm

He may still look like an angelic teenager, but in the last year hearthrob Ronan Keating has grown from Boyzone to man. Married with a baby, and now part-manager of successful young pretenders to the boy band title Westlife, Keating looks back at an eventful year.

BARNSLEY V STOCKPORT COUNTY
SKY SPORTS 2 7.00PM

Two new managers with two different levels of expectation put their teams on view tonight, as Barnsley entertain Stockport at Oakwell. Tykes' boss Dave Bassett has the experience to take the Yorkshire team back to the Premier League, and he has wisdom on the field too with men like Kevin Richardson. Bassett's opposite number Andy Kilner will have to use all his skills to keep County in this division. Players like Sean Connelly need to play to their full potential again this season.

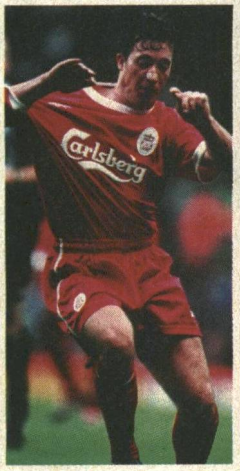
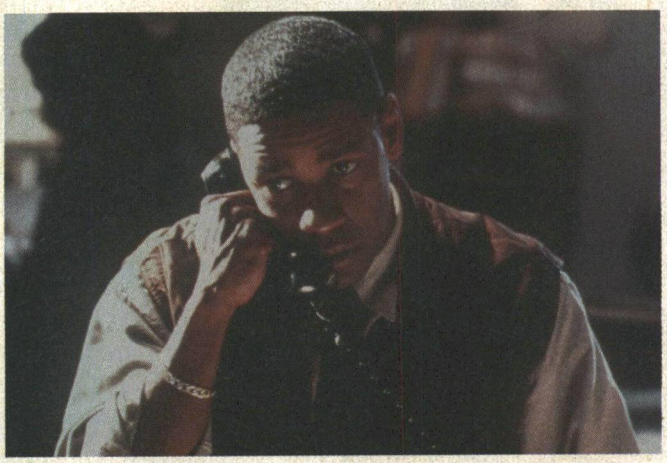
CAN LIVERPOOL RISE TO THE OCCASION?

This weekend's football coverage is graced by a fixture of consummate Premier League pedigree as Liverpool (whose Robbie Fowler is pictured) entertain arch-rivals Manchester United. Liverpool boss Gerard Houllier has acted decisively to try to bridge the gap between Merseyside's fallen giants and Sir Alex Ferguson's all-conquering heroes, and, by spending £24.5m, he has transformed the team that failed to realise its promise last season. With a new-look line-up, the Reds will be gunning for their Mancuncian rivals, and a victory over the old foe so early in the season could give them the impetus to mount a serious challenge for the Premier League crown.



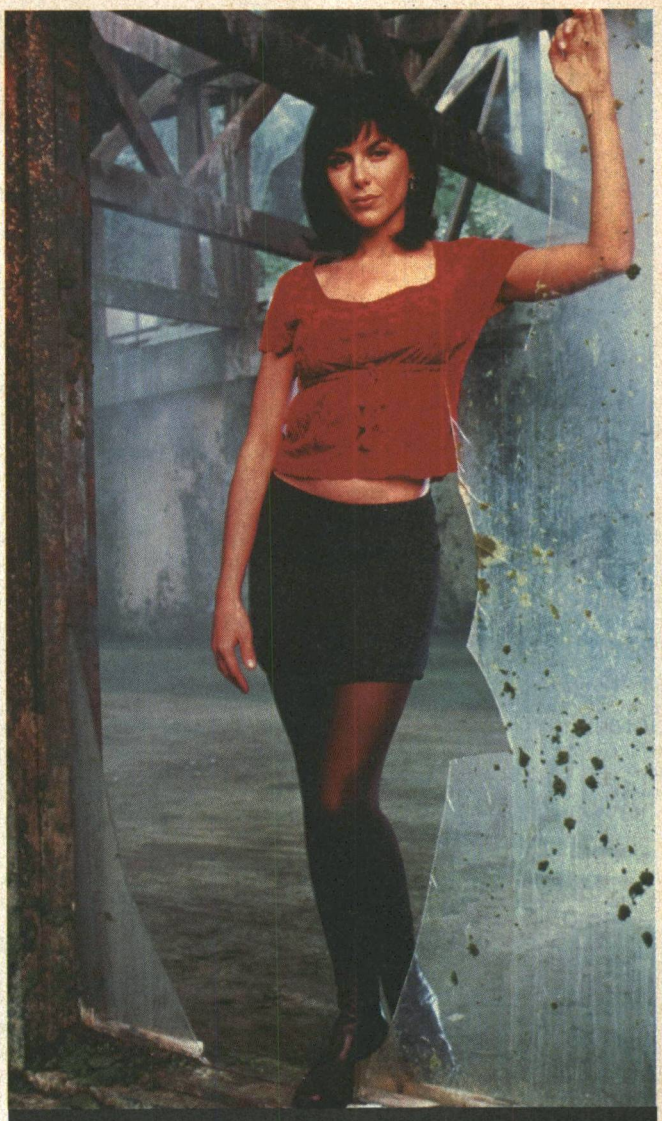
Sky Sports 1 Saturday 11th 11.00am – LIVE



TOUCH OF EVIL

Atmospheric horror collides with the gritty police procedural in the premiere of Fallen. This stylish supernatural thriller grips the attention immediately, thanks to the teasing pre-credits sequence which introduces our narrator, played by Denzel Washington, who is seen stumbling, wounded, through a snowbound forest. 'I want to tell you about the time I almost died,' he tells us in his voice-over, and the film goes into flashback mode. It's revealed that Washington is Detective John Hobbes, who finds himself implicated in a series of murders that seem inspired by the grisly handiwork of Edgar Reese, an executed killer whom Hobbes captured. Some bizarre clues lead Hobbes to discover that the deaths are the doings of a demon called Azazel, whose spirit, which once resided in Reese's body, is transferred from one host to another by touch. Azazel plans to bring about the fall of civilisation and Hobbes, who is forced to go on the run after the demon causes him to shoot an innocent man, resolves to prevent this catastrophe in the mischievously scripted climax. As you might expect from former NYPD Blue director Gregory Hoblit, the station house sequences register as utterly authentic. But he gives equal regard to the conventions of the horror genre and infects the film with a pervasive malevolence. The conceit of a contagious evil transmitted by touch produces the movie's most memorable moment, when Azazel progresses from person to person through the police station, with each new host singing the next line from The Rolling Stones hit Time Is on My Side (the tune Reese sang as he was being gassed). It's an inventive pass-the-parcel plot device and gives the movie a compulsive, driving momentum.

Sky Premier Saturday 11th 10.00pm



SLIDE SHOW

Its inventively conceived, dimension-straddling stories and rounded, intrepid characters have won Sky One's Sliders an army of admirers. It embarks on its fifth season on the channel this week and, while the difference in tone from earlier seasons and the absence of the O'Connell brothers, Jerry and Charlie (the former of who played the central character, Quinn Mallory), will court controversy among purists, fans are advised to make the most of it, as it is likely this will be the the swan song of the show. Sliders has changed considerably from its first series in 1995. The emphasis seems to be less on the quirky and irrational What If? plotlines, in which the time-travelling protagonists would 'slide' onto parallel Earths with alternative histories (Oliver North could be president, say, or vinyl may have replaced CDs as the music format of choice), than on our heroes' confrontations with a malevolent race called the Kromaggs. Sliders has skilfully created its own mythology around this central premise and, while the conflict with the Kromaggs is at the heart of the new series, the storylines showcase some parallel Earths that are as eccentric as those visited in earlier adventures. In the opening episode, The Unstuck Man, newcomers Robert Floyd (as an alternate Mallory) and Tembi Locke join regulars Cleavant Derricks and Kari Wuhrer (pictured) in a race to prevent a scientist from destroying all alternate worlds.

Fallen
Sky Premier 10.00pm
An unjustly ignored hybrid of the horror film and the police procedural, this premiere is admirably respectful of both genres and is graced by a typically strong lead performance from Denzel Washington as a detective on the trail of an evil spirit.

GENERAL

Harry Hill – First Class Scamp
Paramount Comedy Channel 11.00pm
Recorded at the Debonnaire Dachshund in London's West End at the end of his 1998 tour, the ex-doctor turned absurd humourist Harry Hill does what he knows best, wildly tangential stand-up. Prepare to be carried away on Hill's hilariously surreal flights of fancy.

4.30 Tennis: US Open – Women's Singles Final and Men's Singles Semi-Finals – LIVE
Flushing Meadows hosts action from the penultimate day's play in the 1999 US Open tennis championship. By the end of today, the many thousands of spectators at New York's world famous National Tennis Center will be applauding the final ladies' singles champion of the century. It is anyone's guess who will lift the trophy. In July, Lindsay Davenport added Wimbledon to her 1998 US Open title triumph and is the player on form. Martina Hingis was knocked off the top of the rankings by Davenport and would like nothing better than to reclaim her number one spot on her rival's home ground. A strong American challenge is completed by Venus Williams, regarded by many as the player to take women's tennis into the 21st century. There is also action from both men's singles semi-finals. Andrew Castle presents all the action.

LIVERPOOL V MANCHESTER UNITED SKY SPORTS 1 11.00AM

The English team of the Eighties against the team of the Nineties – Liverpool v Manchester United is always eventful. Today's meeting at Anfield may be even more electric than usual as the home team's supporters are expecting a return to trophy-winning form, after the club spent over £24m in the close-season. They also expect more maturity from the likes of Robbie Fowler. Speaking of maturity, United's David Beckham now seems to have it in abundance and is receiving recognition for this.

LIVE
BRADFORD V TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR
SKY SPORTS 1 3.00PM

For Bradford City fans, this afternoon's Premier League game at home to Spurs must feel like a dream. The Yorkshire team might be favourites for relegation, but it won't stop them fighting with all their might to pick up those early season points which will be crucial come next spring. The likes of Neil Redfearn will help steady the ship, but scoring enough goals will be their problem. While players of the calibre of Spurs' David Ginola will pose a threat to the home team's defence

Lombard Direct

THE NEW DEAL IN CREDIT CARDS.

NO FEE. NO FRILLS. JUST A GREAT NEW CREDIT CARD DEAL.

LOW COST AND GREAT VALUE!

Unlike most cards, Lombard Direct MasterCard has been designed to provide you with just one, low APR, whatever you use it for.

With Lombard Direct MasterCard there is no fee and, for all balance transfers, purchases and cash advances, the APR will be just 5.9% for the first six months and 15.9% APR thereafter – still more competitive than the standard APRs offered by many of the main card providers.

What's more, in addition to the usual benefits you'd expect from a MasterCard, you can:

- Withdraw up to £100 per day and you won't be charged a cash handling fee.
- Enjoy up to 100 days' insurance cover on most purchases over £50†.
- Take advantage of up to 56 days' interest-free credit on purchases.
- Choose when you want to receive your statement each month.
- Choose between two different card designs.

CHECK HOW COMPETITIVE LOMBARD DIRECT MASTERCARD IS!

Take a look at the table below to see how much you could save by transferring to Lombard Direct MasterCard from the standard rate on these credit cards.

LENDER	ANNUAL FEE	SAME, LOW INTRODUCTORY APR FOR ALL BALANCE TRANSFERS, PURCHASES & CASH ADVANCES	INTRODUCTORY APR%	STANDARD APR%	STANDARD APR% FOR CASH ADVANCES	HOW MUCH YOU WOULD SAVE IN THE FIRST YEAR BY TRANSFERRING A BALANCE OF £2,000 TO LOMBARD DIRECT MASTERCARD
Lombard Direct MasterCard	NIL	YES	5.9%	15.9%	15.9%	N/A
Barclaycard VISA/MasterCard	£10	NO	N/A	19.9%	21.8%	£150.16
Goldfish VISA/MasterCard	NIL	NO	N/A	18.9%	20.7%	£143.28
RBS Advanta VISA	NIL	NO	5.9%	17.9%	20.3%	£126.48

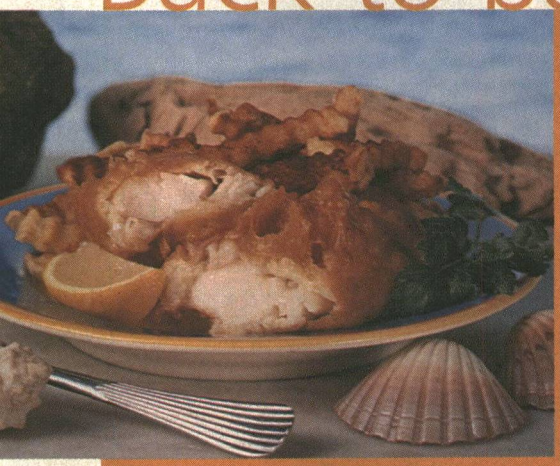
Back to basics



THE simple things are often the easiest to fluff, so it's back to basics with this month's recipe – your classic, no nonsense fish and chips. And celebrating all things classic is a new series on Carlton Food appropriately named, Classic Dishes, which will be showing viewers how to cook and present British stalwarts like sausage and mash, beef Wellington, sherry trifle and the attractively named toad in the hole. Moving further from home, but keeping the classic theme, there'll be lessons in chilli con carne, spaghetti carbonara, moussakka and the humble hamburger, too. Classic Dishes, Tuesdays from 14th, 3.30pm

Ingredients:

4 large Maris Piper or King Edward potatoes
1 litre of dripping
1 litre of sunflower oil
1 thick cod fillet (about 1½lb in weight)
225 (8oz) self-raising flour
450ml bottle of good beer (not lager)
1 bottle Sarsons vinegar
ketchup
salt
lemon wedges

Method:

1 Simply peel and chop the potatoes into large batten-sized chips and place them into a mixture of hot oil and dripping at 150°C for about 4-5 minutes. Make sure the chips are softened, but don't allow them to colour too much.
2 To make the batter, mix together the self-raising flour, seasoning and enough beer to achieve a thick wallpaper paste consistency.
3 Cut the cod into 6 to 8 pieces, coat in the batter and deep fry in the same fat as the chips at 180°C to 190°C until brown in colour.
4 Drain and serve with vinegar, ketchup and a wedge of lemon. Enjoy with the rest of the beer!

SOPHIE'S CHOICE

Kicking off the new series of Carlton Food Network's Newman Meets – and perhaps the perfect guest for the eponymous hostess – is prolific food writer, cook and gastronome Sophie Grigson. Strange but true is the fact that in the beginning, young Sophie, daughter of food writer Jane Grigson, had absolutely no interest in food. Instead, she studied maths at university and then worked for a small company that produced pop videos. She finally got into food writing with her first job writing for a newspaper and the rest, as they say, is history. Newman Meets, from Wednesday 8th, 2.00pm

INSIDE SCOTTISH FOOTBALL
SKY SPORTS 1 11.00PM

The ten-team Premier League in Scotland is awash with talent these days, both domestic and foreign, as this programme highlights. Early season stories will focus on the Kenny Dalglish/John Barnes partnership at Celtic, and if Rangers manager Dick Advocaat can muster the likes of Rod Wallace and Lorenzo Amoruso to ward off the challenge. Plenty of action, interviews and features to put the latest games into perspective. The show is presented by Jim White.

Presenting our first-ever plate and votive candle display.

A Holy Light Shall Guide You.

A votive candle display enhances a glorious portrait of the Blessed Mother. Inspired by the sacred shrines of the world's great churches.

Actual size of plate is 8½" x 6¼" (21.5 cm x 15.8 cm). Candle not included.

In churches around the world, believers come to pray at quiet shrines, lighting small candles in offering – seeking hope and comfort.

Now you can bring the peace and sanctity of a sacred shrine into your home with a truly inspiring work of art, Mary, Queen of Angels. A magnificent heirloom plate provides the focus for this religious treasure. Crafted in fine porcelain and bordered with 22 carat gold, it bears a precious image of the Blessed Mother re-created from one of the pre-eminent collections of religious art in the world. This breathtaking work of art is accompanied by a beautiful wood display. Its glass candle holder is suitable for holding your own votive candle, to illuminate the holy image and symbolise your devotion.

Just £29.95, this Collector's Edition heirloom plate is available exclusively from Franklin Mint.

FILM

An American Werewolf in Paris
Sky MovieMax 11.00pm
Among the chief triumphs of An American Werewolf in London were its incredible make-up effects and its evocation of the brute pain of the transformation into such a beast. This belated, broadly comic sequel relies too much on computer trickery but it has its shocking moments.

GENERAL

Frasier
Paramount Comedy Channel 10.00pm
Another chance to analyse the hilarious comic interplay between loveable neurotics Niles and Frasier Crane in this first episode of the sixth series. Frasier (Kelsey Grammer) has lost his job at the radio station and Niles (David Hyde Pierce) is trying to be supportive.

This is one of the most glamorous golf tournaments on the PGA European Tour – with 1,120,000 euros in prize money – as the French bring all their Gallic style and chic to the Trophée Lancôme on the Saint Nom-La-Bretêche course near Paris. And the golf is usually pretty good, too. Last year, Spain's Miguel Angel Jiménez stunned American rivals David Duval and Mark O'Meara with a chip-in from a bunker beside the 18th green, which earned him victory.

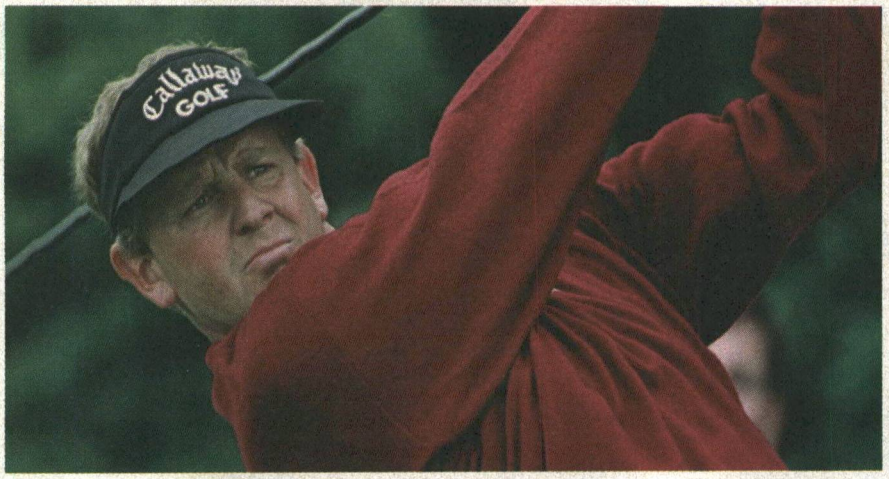
SECTION 3 SATURDAY 18TH SEPTEMBER – FRIDAY 24TH SEPTEMBER



MONTGOMERIE SETS OUT TO GIVE TIGER A MAULING

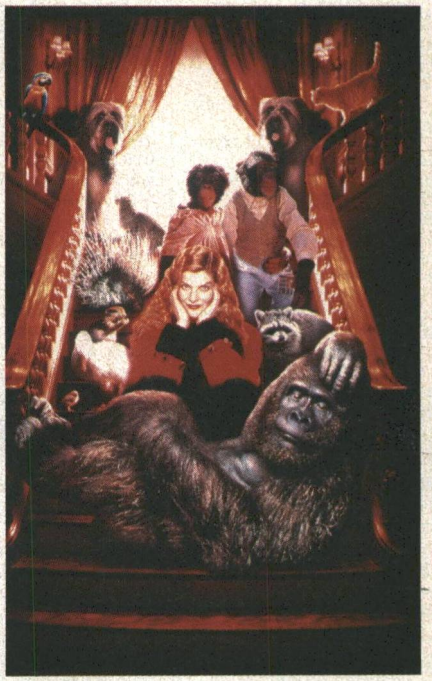
As the 33rd Ryder Cup begins on Friday, the big question is can Europe make it a hat trick of wins or will a prodigiously talented American team (which boasts six players in the world top ten) wrestle it away from them and increase their lead of match scores to 23 against Europe's seven? Two of the matches have been tied. The inaugural Ryder Cup, which the USA won, was played in 1927 at the Worcester Country Club in Massachusetts and, appropriately enough, this New England state once again plays host, as The Country Club in Brookline, Boston, provides the grand setting. The Ryder Cup inspires the sort of national pride and passion one might normally associate with a football international, and this year's event will be no different, as some 30,000 fans filled with patriotic fervour are expected to line the greens and fairways. Sky's live coverage on Friday and Saturday sees the fourball and foursomes, while the tension really begins to mount on Sunday as the players go head-to-head in the twelve singles matches. Likely heroes for the home team, who are captained by Ben Crenshaw, could be Tiger Woods, David Duval, Davis Love III and Mark O'Meara. While Europe will probably look to stalwarts such as Colin Montgomerie (pictured), US Masters winner José Maria Olazábal and England's young sensation Lee Westwood for inspiration. Whatever the outcome, three days of thrilling top-class golf should be assured.

Sky Box Office 3 from Friday 24th 11.30am – Live

PERFECT RECALL

Of director Paul Verhoeven's three forays into sci-fi, Total Recall seemed the perfect choice for a TV makeover. Verhoeven's savagely satirical RoboCop has already been given the sanitised small screen treatment, in both animated and live-action forms, and his Starship Troopers would work well as a TV show – though the emphasis would probably be less on the film's perverse wit and outrageous bloodshed than on the soap opera-style relationships of its young characters. But the premise of Verhoeven's 1990 Arnold Schwarzenegger vehicle (which was inspired by visionary genre author Philip K Dick's We Can Remember It for You Wholesale) lends itself readily to the format of a 'continuing adventures of' series. At the film's centre was the notion of implanted memories and the dislocating interplay between reality and imagined reality. The new Sky One series Total Recall 2070 takes the intriguing idea of artificial experience and places it at the hub of a futuristic cop show. The series boasts an interesting noir hero in David Hume (played by Michael Easton, pictured with screen wife Cynthia Preston), an officer of the Citizen's Protection Bureau who, in this week's feature-length pilot, tries to uncover the truth about his dead partner and the disappearance of a young boy.

Sky One Wednesday 22nd 9.00pm



MONKEY TIME

A subtly subversive celebration of non-conformity couched in lightly comic terms, this week's premiere of Buddy emerges as one of the oddest family films of recent years. It is the first feature from Jim Henson Pictures, a company which, in its official philosophy, outlined its commitment to tackle 'extraordinary relationships' in its movies. Well, relationships don't get any more extraordinary than the one at the centre of this film, set in the Twenties and Thirties. Proving the old adage that truth is stranger than fiction, the movie is based on the memoirs of Gertrude Davies Lintz, an eccentric society woman who had a strange affinity with animals and allowed them to run riot over her lavish estate. The most comically mischievous of these beasts are Lintz's grandly named chimp companions Joe Mendi and Maggie Klein, but most important to the story is the creature of the title, a gorilla that Lintz (as played by Rene Russo) rescues from a Philadelphia zoo and raises as though it were her child. Real animals are augmented by excellent animatronic creations, while the full-grown Buddy is brought to life by a group of mime artists taking turns in a convincing suit, the chief performer being Peter Elliott, who has made a career out of impersonating apes in such films as Congo. Russo gives a good-humoured portrayal but approaches the part with sympathy and understanding, and never plays it for easy laughs – though her 'straight' performance has the effect of enhancing the peculiar nature of the story.

ATP, MALLORCA
EUROSPORT 5.00PM

This short autumn clay season for the men's tennis tour is highlighted by the Mallorca Open, with a hefty prize fund of $500,000 and a large number of Spaniards likely to be cashing in. Today sees action from the semi-finals of a tournament won last year by Brazilian Gustavo Kuerten who had to defeat local hero Carlos Moya in three sets. Kuerten, the French Open champion in 1997, is always dangerous on clay and could well repeat his victory.

SCI-FI ZONE

Your guide to out-of-this-world shows on cable. WORDS PATRICK HOLM

In Hume can you trust?

Starting in Britain only a few months after its debut in the US, Total Recall 2070 is based in the same universe as the Arnold Schwarzenegger film, where Arnie discovered that his life was a fake – or did he? In this world nothing is what it seems. People are not who they say, or even think, they are. It's a world where memories and personalities, along with new and alien technologies, are sold to the highest bidder. David Hume of the Citizen's Protection Bureau is a throwback – a detective of the future whose personality is more like a 20th-century street sleuth. Alongside his android partner, Ian Farve, he fights a world of corporate espionage and bio-engineering, which usually has at the heart of the crime the Consortium (mega-businesses that include the memory enhancers ReKall and UberBraun Technologies). But when the Consortium itself controls the CPB, who can Hume trust? Sky One, starts Wednesday 22nd, 9.00pm

Starring in Total Recall 2070*: Cynthia Preston as Olivia Hume and Michael Easton as her husband David*

THE FLOODGATES OPEN

The SG-1 team have been kidnapped by the evil Hathor, and made to believe that they have each woken up separately 70 years in the future, their friends dead. Breaking through the conditioning, Jack O'Neill, Sam Carter and Daniel Jackson realise the truth – but are faced by Hathor, who threatens them with a Go'auld symbiont which will control their minds. The third season of Stargate SG-1 maintains the pace and action of previous years with major developments in store for the lead characters, including a marriage. Producers Brad Wright and Jonathan Glassner knew they had four years to tell their story, so they've planted seeds during the first two seasons that are going to come back and bite the SG-1 team just when they least expect it. Sky One, starts Wednesday 22nd, 8.00pm

Michael Dorn (plus fright wig) stars as Klingon Security Officer Worf in Sky One's Deep Space 9

All's fine on DS9

They say the night is darkest just before the dawn, and for the crew of Starfleet space station Deep Space 9, the end of the sixth season was their darkest moment. Science officer Jadzia Dax (right), recently married to Klingon Security Officer Worf, was killed in a senseless attack, and in his grief Captain Benjamin Sisko has returned to Earth, last seen peeling potatoes behind his father's restaurant in New Orleans. But Jadzia has a Trill symbiont, and, rather like the Time Lords on Doctor Who, is able to live many lives – so while Jadzia is dead, Dax isn't, and she is implanted in a young, quite insecure Starfleet officer, Ezri. As the seventh and final season starts, Ben Sisko must learn what the future holds for him, Worf must come to terms with someone else claiming to be his wife – while the Dominion-Cardassian Alliance strengthens its grip on the Alpha Quadrant ... Sky One, Monday 20th, 8.00pm

LEEDS UNITED V MIDDLESBROUGH
SKY SPORTS 1 3.00PM

The Leeds team put together by David O'Leary is the envy of the Premier League. They have youth, energy and potential, but this season they have to win a trophy. Today's clash at Elland Road against Middlesbrough may show the different directions these two clubs are heading this year. Leeds boast Australian speed merchant Harry Kewell, while Boro possess Paul Gascoigne, who nowadays relies more on his footballing brain than physical prowess.

ATP, BOURNEMOUTH
EUROSPORT 12.30PM

The pleasant surroundings of Bournemouth play host to some ATP tennis, and you can sit back to enjoy the final of an event which has become a firm favourite in the British tennis calendar. Greg Rusedski has held the British flag high here over the last few years, winning one doubles title back in 1996. But, as usual on clay, the Spaniards dominate and last year saw Felix Mantilla defeat fellow countryman Albert Costa 6-3, 7-5 in the final. The prize money is $400,000.

THE Sorrento

Inspired by the refined sophistication and classic distinction of Italian style and design, the master jewellers of Brooks & Bentley are proud to announce Sorrento, an exciting new timepiece created for the man who appreciates the finer things in life.

With striking good looks and precision timing, Sorrento embraces only the very finest of materials. The richness of 18 carat gold plating, gleaming stainless steel, accents of sleek black ceramics and the glittering radiance of two faux gemstones bring this exceptional new design to life. And for the perfect finishing touch, Sorrento is complemented by a Swiss quartz movement and sapphire crystal glass making it water resistant to 30 metres.

Available at the special introductory price of only £148.00* per exquisite timepiece Sorrento is payable in ten interest-free monthly instalments for your convenience. Each finely polished watch comes complete with a Certificate of Authenticity and a deluxe presentation case - perfect for gift giving.

To acquire Sorrento in all its luxurious splendour simply telephone our 24 Hour Express Order Line on 0870 078 1111 today to secure your order. Alternatively complete and return your reservation form below by 30th September, 1999. You need send no money now. Ref: 1354612

Polished good looks and stylish design... for time is the most precious luxury of all Shown larger than actual size of approximately 8" (20.5cm) long.

OUR PLEDGE OF COMPLETE SATISFACTION

Brooks & Bentley takes pride in offering works of uncompromisingly high standards of quality, created with care and dedication by skilled craftsmen. IAAF GOLDEN LEAGUE GRAND PRIX FINAL
EUROSPORT 9.00AM

A look at the 15th IAAF Grand Prix Final from Munich. With so much money at stake and plenty of world class reputations on show, a fabulous field of talent is guaranteed from America, Europe and Africa. Last year's big money winners were US flyer Marion Jones, Haile Gebrselassie of Ethiopia and Hicham El Guerrouj of Morocco. British interest could centre around 110 metre hurdler Colin Jackson and Mark Richardson in the 400 metres.

Fantasy & SF Book Club, BCA, Swindon, SN99 9XX

HEROIC ADVENTURE, ACTION, EXCITEMENT? STAY IN BED!

You could pull on your armour or blaster-proof space suit, grab your sword or laser gun and head off in pursuit of the dark rulers of magical lands, or to claim the bounty on inter-galactic pirates.

But waiting at the bus stop dressed like that is not the best way to get to where you want to go.

With the Fantasy & SF Book Club your thirst for adventure can be satisfied without even changing out of your pyjamas – although certain people have been to the end of the universe wearing theirs!

You'll be offered the very best and latest titles from the world's bestselling fantasy and science fiction authors. From J. R. R. Tolkien and Terry Pratchett, David Eddings and Katherine Kerr to Anne McCaffrey, William Gibson and Douglas Adams, you'll find what you're looking for.

To become a member of the Fantasy & SF Book Club, choose any five of the books shown here from only 50p EACH (plus £2.95 p&p). BUT SEND NO MONEY NOW – you'll get them all on ten days' approval.

WHAT DO YOU GET?

- A remarkable range of fantasy and sf books, videos and CD ROMs
- A FREE magazine approximately every two months
- Guaranteed savings of up to 50% off publishers' prices
- An experienced, quality service delivering books to your door.

All we ask of you is that you buy at least one book from each magazine for a minimum of four magazines.

To apply for membership of the Fantasy & SF Book Club, complete and return the coupon today.

LPGA 1999: SAFECO CLASSIC
SKY SPORTS 2 3.30PM

It's been a year when Australia's Karrie Webb has dominated the women's golf circuit with some fine victories, the best probably being her first major win last month in the du Maurier Classic. This programme will plot the story of the Safeco Classic from the Meridian Valley Country Club in Washington, a title being defended by Sweden's Annika Sörenstam. From a British standpoint, Laura Davies is beginning her return to top form and could also be a contender.

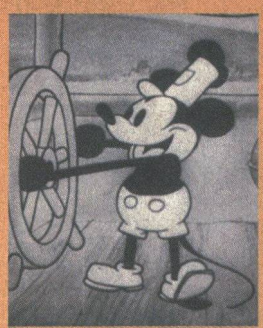
Mad about the mouse

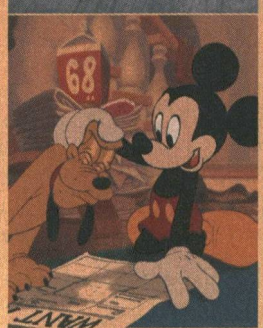
BACK in the Twenties it began with a mouse. Mickey took to the screen and won the hearts of millions. And today? Well, today, Mickey is very much alive and kicking, but he is huge – he's known as Topolino in Italy, Musse Pigg in Sweden and Mi Lao Shu in China. He's become so big he needed to be grounded and that's where 'Bobs and Tony', Roberts Gannaway, 34, and Tony Craig, 32, a writer and animator team, came in. Their brief from Disney was to take Mickey back to the small screen and make him loveable and accessible again, thus Mickey MouseWorks was born. And this month on Disney Channel it makes its British TV premiere.

'We came up with the idea of short cartoons again, where he began life,' says Bobs. 'It was a simple concept: we kept Mickey and his friends in the same outfits and the plots remain straightforward, funny and grounded in honest emotions.

'The result is a series of half-hour shows that can be divided up how we want: there are 90-second "gag cartoons" reintroducing all the characters, six-minute cartoons and 12-minute ensemble pieces giving more room for story.'

The dream team, who were approached by Disney two years ago, share a love of storytelling and appreciate each other's strengths.





'There are two things you need: a good story and a good drawing. I pretty much evolve the story and Tony is the animator.'

According to Bobs, a six-minute cartoon takes nine months to make. 'You can either make a cartoon or a baby,' he laughingly says. During that time it passes through about 40 pairs of hands and although digital animation plays a part, a lot is still hand-painted.'

And as far as job satisfaction is concerned, Bobs's joy at working for Disney is overwhelming. 'I can't tell you what an honour it is to work with Roy Disney,' he says with hushed reverence. And there's a nice Disney twist to the tale too. In real life the voices of on-screen lovers, Mickey and Minnie, are husband and wife team Wayne Allwine and Russi Taylor. 'They're an adorable couple,' says Bobs. 'Their personalities are not unlike the characters they perform.'

Disney's Mickey MouseWorks, Saturdays and Sundays at 2.30pm, from 4th

WIN MICKEY MOUSEWORKS GOODIES!

To celebrate the return of Mickey and his friends, Disney Channel is giving one lucky winner the chance to own a piece of history with original artwork from Mickey MouseWorks up for grabs. There are 10 runner-up goody bags available too!

To win these fantastic Disney Channel goodies, all you have to do is answer this simple question:

What is the name of Mickey's female pal?

Send your answers on a postcard to Cable Guide/Mickey MouseWorks competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 11 correct entries drawn at random win. Rules available on request.

NEW in September

NEW to Fox Kids, daily, 8.00am, is Mystic Knights of Tir Na Nog, a £13m action-packed series shot on location in Ireland. It follows the adventures of the hero, Rohan, and his brave companions, as they travel the world of Tir Na Nog ('land of the young') to bring peace to the embattled kingdom of the Kells. This 50-part series is set to fuel the imagination and amaze you with special effects ...

THOMAS the Tank Engine arrives at Nickelodeon this month – weekdays, 12 noon.

DISCOVER the winners of the coveted Disney Channel Kids Awards – and catch loads of star guests – as the ceremony is broadcast on Disney Channel, Sunday 19th, 2.30pm ...

PLAYHOUSE Disney launches on Disney Channel – every weekday, 9.00am-2.00pm during term time. This new format, presented by Dave Benson-Phillips and Alex Lovell (below), gives pre-schoolers the opportunity to learn and discover new things using the power of their imagination, with exciting and educational shows and, of course, the Disney classics.

Introducing the Heaven's Little Angels Collection ...

AVAILABLE EXCLUSIVELY THROUGH BRADFORD EDITIONS

... where each little angel earns a very special pair of wings

These sweet, innocent angels are created just for you by two renowned artists in the collectables field; Donna Brooks and Dona Gelsinger. Together, they bring you Heaven's Little Angels, a collection of adorable ornaments that feature unique, three-dimensional wings on each little angel!

Unique and delicate three-dimensional wings make these angels "heaven sent"

"Gentle Guardian" opens this celestial trio with lifelike feathery wings as delicately soft as those of the bluebird she sweetly rescues. Nurturing her timid bunny friend, "Loving Kindness" is graced with golden-edged wings made of fine mesh. Her sister angel, depicted in "Garden Miracle" is blessed with delicate fabric wings, carefully stitched to capture the look of individual feathers.

Crafted of fine ceramic in full colour and painstaking detail, each little angel represents a loving deed of thought to inspire you all year round!

Let your heart take flight

The Heaven's Little Angels ornament trios are sure to win your heart - and those of countless angel admirers and collectors! Reserve your series today.

Heaven's Little Angels are supplied in sets of three ornaments, each issued at approximately monthly intervals, enabling you to build your own ornament collection easily and affordably. To reserve your collection - fully backed by Bradford Edition's 365-day buy-back guarantee - simply complete the Priority Reservation Form and post it today.

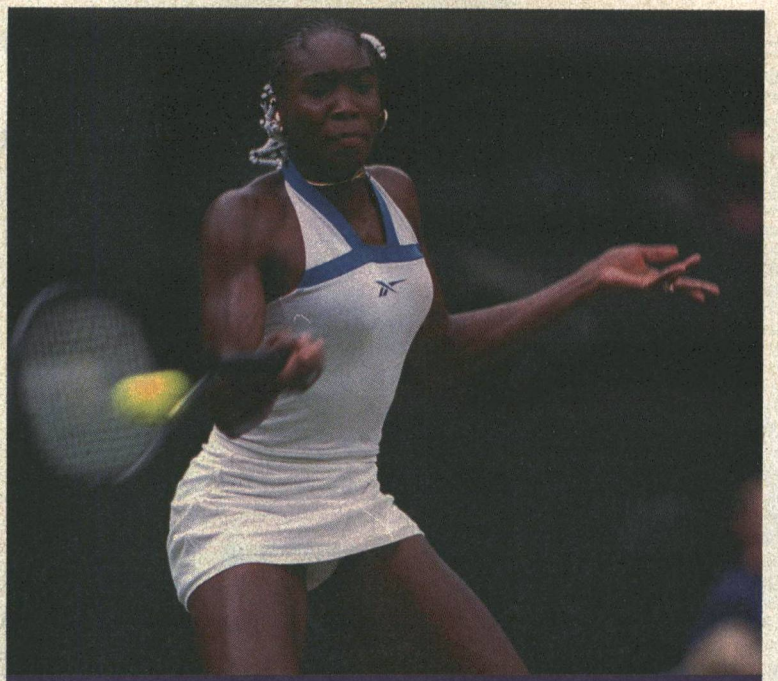
SECTION 4 SATURDAY 25TH SEPTEMBER – THURSDAY 30TH SEPTEMBER



AN ACE TIME IN MUNICH

As a venue for prestigious sporting events Munich may not possess the same glamour as New York but when the US Open finishes earlier this month at Flushing Meadows the next big event on the tennis calendar will be the Compaq Grand Slam Cup. Coincidentally, this grandest of all grand slams shares the spotlight with the Bavarian capital's other main cultural event – the Oktoberfest, the biggest public festival in the world – as they both commence in September and climax in October. At the Olympiahalle, however, the world's top 20 players will have their minds focused on the serious business of trying to scoop the lion's share of the $6.7m prize money on offer. The winner of the men's event will win an impressive $1.3m, while $800,000 is what the top-placed woman can expect to take home. But the competition is intense as this tournament welcomes only those players – 12 men and eight women – who have accumulated most points during the four Grand Slam events of the year in Australia, France, Wimbledon and the US. So we can expect to see the likes of Andre Agassi, Pete Sampras, Patrick Rafter, Lindsay Davenport and Martina Hingis in action. Agassi, in fact, was a beaten finalist last year when he succumbed to Marcelo Rios in a tight five-set match, while Venus Williams (pictured) overcame Patty Schnyder in three sets to win what was the first women's title at the Olympiahalle.

Sky Sports 2 from Tuesday 28th September 1.00pm – Live

THE LOVE OF MIKE

Since he first made his presence felt in cinema with his steadfastly unsentimental 1971 feature debut Bleak Moments, celebrated British director Mike Leigh has emerged as a self-styled champion of the working class. And FilmFour pays tribute to Leigh's talents this week with a season comprising some of his finest movies. Leigh cut his directorial teeth in the theatre but first gained wide-spread recognition in 1977 when his endlessly quotable and grotesquely funny stage play Abigail's Party was adapted for television. But he has won most acclaim for his movies, which include the warm ensemble piece Life Is Sweet, the moving Cannes Palme d'Or-winner Secrets and Lies (whose Oscar-nominated stars Marianne Jean-Baptiste and Brenda Blethyn are pictured) and its follow-up Career Girls. While he's often thought of as being an angst auteur, Leigh's rehearsal methods are uniquely collaborative: with only the most slender of story foundations, he works closely with his cast during an intense period of improvisation and interactive discussions until a potential film begins to take shape. This style of working gives Leigh's films their distinct style; the emphasis on ad-libbing can encourage a somewhat heightened sense of reality, but it can also generate some heartfelt characterisations, as well as moments of jolting emotional immediacy. With the exception of Abigail's Party, all the titles mentioned are being shown on FilmFour, along with Meantime, his 20-minute TV comedy Short and Curlies and High Hopes, which, along with Bleak Moments and Career Girls, is making its debut on the channel.

FilmFour from Monday 27th 8.00pm

FOLLOW YOUR STAR

Celebrities are called upon to offer their expert advice to young hopefuls in the supremely entertaining new Sky One series Guiding Stars. Future editions of this show that champions the underdog see EastEnders star Adam Woodyatt step in to direct an amateur dramatics troupe and Dale Winton lend a helping hand to a down-on-its-luck hospital radio station. This week's offering is the concluding edition of a two-parter in which heroic England and Arsenal goal-stopper David Seaman turns coach in a bid to lead modest Sunday football side Chiltern FC to league triumph.

SAMSUNG NATIONS CUP
EUROSPORT 5.00PM

In the world of showjumping, the Nations Cup is the best team event outside the Olympics and World Championship and lasts the whole of the equestrianism season. This final round comes from Gijón in Spain. France are the defending champions, well placed to repeat their triumph of a year ago. Their major rivals for the title are Switzerland and Germany who have each enjoyed consistent seasons. Among the top riders on show will be former Dutch World Cup champion Jos Lansink.

LIVE
LIVERPOOL V EVERTON
SKY SPORTS 1 7.00PM

Expect a 100mph start to the latest Merseyside derby in the FA Premier League. Both teams have high expectations for this season, and all Liverpool manager Gerard Houllier's new imports will be experiencing the unique atmosphere of a Merseyside clash for the first time. Perhaps that will work to the Blues' advantage, although Reds midfielder Jamie Redknapp will be a calming influence, while last season's man-of-the-moment for Everton, Kevin Campbell, could be their danger man.

Introducing the new Bose® Wave® radio/CD.

It's the latest innovation from the best known name in sound. Bose has never been known to rest on its laurels. While another company might settle for having invented the world's most highly reviewed radio, regardless of size or price—we could not. So we challenged ourselves to repeat our success—with the new Bose Wave radio/CD.

We started by maintaining the performance. It reaches out and grabs your attention from the first note with its incredible realism. Deep bass moves you. Clear, crisp sound engulfs you—sound that is only possible with our patented acoustic waveguide speaker technology. It's the technology which when introduced in the original Wave radio, created the sound Radio World called "simply amazing...a genuine breakthrough." And won its inventors the coveted "Inventor of the Year" award.

Then there's the way it functions. As a CD player for your most treasured music. As an AM/FM radio, with convenient presets. As speakers that bring the action to life with your TV or computer. Even as a clock radio with dual alarms to wake you gently to your favourite CD track or station. And let's not forget the credit card-sized remote that controls even the skip and search functions from across the room.

And, as for form, the simple, elegant style of the Bose Wave radio/CD makes it right at home in virtually any décor.

We guarantee no conventional radio comes close. The Wave radio/CD is available directly from Bose. Call and we'll ship yours right away—and ask about our interest-free payment plan. Plug it in and listen to your favourite CD. From that very first minute, we don't think you'll ever be able to part with it. If you can, return it within 30 days and we'll refund your entire purchase price. But once you hear the latest innovation from Bose, we suspect you won't be happy with anything less.

Batman
Sky Premier 11.40pm
'I have given a name to my pain, and it is Batman;' so says the Joker in Tim Burton's dark vision of the comic book hero. Produced on a grand scale with gadgets, gizmos, stunning sets and a rip-roaring score, it sees Michael Keaton as the Dark Knight of Gotham City.

GENERAL

Ruby Does the Season
Carlton Select 9.30pm
Another chance to see Ms Wax playing the brash American. This series targets the British establishment, starting today with the Polo Gold Cup at Cowdray Park or 'eight men in very tight trousers on outrageously expensive horses charging after a small, white ball', as she puts it.

FORD GOLF USA: BUCK CHALLENGE
SKY SPORTS 2 8.00PM

Australian Steve Elkington (pictured) – better known on the US PGA Tour as the Elk – is one of the most respected players in the world. His smooth swing and calm temperament mean he should be in the top five of the world rankings, but his career has been affected by a series of ailments in recent years. Today, from the Callaway Gardens resort in Georgia, he begins the defence of the $1.8m Buick Challenge title he won in a dramatic play-off last year with American Fred Funk.

HITCHCOCK IS TOPS

I LOVED the in-depth article on Alfred Hitchcock in the August issue and I am pleased to see he is still revered by the continued showing of his movies and programmes. He was without doubt the most recognised director of all by the public. I wonder if a 'Hitchcock Day' might keep his memory alight, screening his documentaries and films back-to-back. (I hope I'm not being a Psycho in suggesting it!) I offer a poem of mine in celebration of the great man. It incorporates 21 of his movies – count them!

Martin Richmond, Falkirk

The lady vanishes
behind a torn curtain, just a Paradine case of stage fright.
She left in a spellbound frenzy,
down thirty nine steps
in the night.
Blackmail was, without a shadow of a doubt,
the cause of Rebecca's
vertigo.
I confess suspicion of her secret past,
once being a notorious psycho.
She took up with entirely the wrong man, a man who knew too much.
The trouble with Harry is taxidermy,
stuffing birds and such.
They met as strangers
on a train,
on the North by Northwest line.
The fat bald man in the corner,
had been there all the time.

● Congratulations, Martin, you've won our prize for best letter!

TEABAG GAG IS NOT FUNNY!

I AM utterly disgusted at Sky One's July advert for episodes of The Simpsons. It is very unfair to Brits, describing them as 'teabags', 'dull and boring', and calling us 'beans-on-toast-eating freaks'! Frankly, I don't understand why this would make people want to watch the programme. I don't have anything against this series but the advert is appalling.

Laura Chandler
e-mail

● Sky One say they are sorry that you felt offended by this advert, but it was simply a US comic's humorous take on life in Britain – it was not intended as insulting.

The master of suspense: One Cable Guide reader thinks that a Hitchcock Day is in order

HOWZAT!

I THOROUGHLY enjoyed Sky's coverage of the Cricket World Cup. Its nightly show was informative and enjoyable with many light moments provided by the studio guests. While Pakistan lost the final, they were undoubtedly one of the most exciting teams to watch throughout the tournament. Does Sky have any plans to cover Pakistan's Test matches? For example the mouth-watering winter series between Australia and Pakistan in November?

Zakir Chaudhry
e-mail

● Sky Sports say they have no current plans to show any coverage of Pakistan's matches in November, but will be covering matches next year, including their home matches in March and April.

WRESTLING'S WINNING FORMULA

I READ with interest the excellent feature on the World Wrestling Federation in the last issue of Cable Guide. I have followed the WWF for many years, and find it the most entertaining weekly programme on Cable. There will always be critics, but credit to the WWF for giving the fans what they want. The readers who have followed the business for a while will appreciate the storyline, even though it's fake. What drama isn't? The issue of whether or not wrestling is real or fake to the true fan is not relevant, although it is staged. It is the storyline that is fascinating to the fans, with the new scenarios each month and the interest it generates. So, if you people out there watching EastEnders and Brookside want to see a real drama with a fascinating storyline, watch the WWF. I've already got my tickets for WWF Rebellion in October.

Tom Edwards
e-Mail

I AM very upset about your article in the August issue of Cable Guide concerning the WWF. You said that the World Wrestling Federation didn't really represent the true meaning of wrestling and basically criticised what is in my opinion the greatest form of entertainment we have today. Even if the TV shows are 'staged', WWF fans, like myself, don't mind. For as long as we find it entertaining, that's all that matters.

GOLDEN OLDIES

I MUST congratulate UK Gold for enabling us to relive the best of British comedy. It is a joy to behold. With the passing of Buster Merryfield, I was grateful for the chance to view some of his finer moments as Uncle Albert in Only Fools and Horses. The number of times my wife and I have flicked through the evening paper to see what is on terrestrial TV, only to end up watching UK Gold, is becoming a regular occurrence.

POKÉMON AND ON AND ON AND ON ...

I'VE BEEN watching the new Japanese craze, Pokémon. I think it is great. The idea of different Pokémon around the world, people capturing and then training them to get into the league, is ace. I thank Sky One for showing it. But, to my horror, the same series has been shown all over again, without the ending. Please show the last part of Pokémon.

Jonathan Hurtault
Lancashrire

● Not to worry, Jonathan, Sky One tell us that whilst there's been a problem acquiring the remaining episodes of Pokémon, they will be shown in December.

MOTORING AHEAD

CONGRATULATIONS on the extensive coverage given by Eurosport to the Le Mans 24 Hour Race (12-13 June). The excellent yet unobtrusive commentary, the splendid variety of camera shots and the driver reviews all made for an enthralling weekend of real motor sport – not the hour-and-a-half dash of the modern Grand Prix circus – and reminded me of the times when Jaguar and Aston Martin dominated.

WE'LL MEET AGAIN ...

THE YAWNING gap – nay – abyss, that is left in my viewing week as, one by one, they end: I have said a sad farewell to ER, Veronica's Closet and Friends. My only consolation has been that this between-season void would soon be filled by the subsequent returns of Stargate, Mad About You and Chicago Hope. So, as another eagerly awaited morning postal delivery arrives, my heart skips a beat, and there, peeping out from under the stairlift and orthopaedic bed leaflets, is the latest Cable Guide! The monthly ritual of frantic rummaging that follows again leaves me with no clues as to the time of our joyous reunion. So, please put me, and other fans of these shows, out of our misery and tell us when they'll return.

Ian Wilkes, e-mail

● Here's the low down from Sky One for you, Ian:* ER, Veronica's Closet and Friends will all return with new series in January. The new series of Stargate SG-1 begins this month (see page 143 for more details), on Wednesday 22nd. There are no current plans for the return of Mad About You or Chicago Hope.

Alex Kingston as Dr Corday in ER – see the new series on Sky One in January

Lombard Direct

THE PERSONAL LOAN SERVICE

OUR LOWEST EVER RATES!

"A PERSONAL LOAN OVER THE PHONE? HERE'S A GUIDE."

WHY'S A LOMBARD DIRECT LOAN BETTER?

- Our unsecured loans range from £800 to £15,000
- You can use one for almost anything you like
- Rates reflect your circumstances and loan amount
- For loans of £12,000 and over, our typical rate (the rate more of our customers pay than any other) is 9.9% APR
- For loans of between £8,000 and £11,999, our typical APR is 10.9%
- For loans of between £5,000 and £7,999, our typical APR is 11.9%
- For loans of between £2,500 and £4,999, our typical APR is 12.9%
- For loans under £2,500, our typical APR is 16.9%
- You can repay over 2, 3, 4 or 5 years
- The interest rate stays fixed over the loan period
- Your repayments are guaranteed to remain the same
- There is no complicated paperwork
- We have no administration fees
- You can apply 24 hours a day - 7 days a week
- No-one beats our commitment to personal service and customer care.

HOW DO I APPLY?

You are welcome to apply for a loan if you:

- do not have any County Court Judgments
- are aged between 22 and 65
- have a bank or building society current account
- are resident in the UK mainland.

Call us free on 0800•2•15000. We'll ask a few more questions about your home, work, bank or building society, income and outgoings. And we'll usually give you a decision there and then. It's that simple.

WHAT'S A TYPICAL EXAMPLE?

For a loan of £5,000 repayable over 36 months, each monthly repayment would be £164.39. The total amount payable would be £5,918.04. APR 11.9%.

For your peace of mind, we offer a Repayment Protection Plan ('RPP'), which covers your repayments in the event of accident, illness or even redundancy.
